NEW EVIDENCE WITHHELD IN MC KAY CASE

SPECIAL FBI AGENT KEEPS WITNESS STAND

Detroit, June 17 (AP)—Government attorneys withheld today new evidence they have promised to introduce in the mail fraud trial of Republican National Committeeman Frank D. McKay and eleven others while a special FBI agent spent his fourth day on the witness stand in telling of an audit of McKay-Dembinsky, Inc.

Henry G. O'Donnell, chief government counsel, said his surprise witness, or witnesses, would appear tomorrow when the examination of John Doyle, the FBI auditor, is completed. He has declined to disclose their identity or the nature of the "new evidence" they will present, save that it is "something I have been looking for for a long time."

Motion Under Advisement

Defense counsel interrupted today's trial session to demand that Doyle's testimony concerning the interest of McKay and his wife in McKay-Dembinsky, Inc., be stricken from the record. U. S. District Judge Arthur F. Lederle, who is hearing the case before a jurp, took the defense motion under advisement.

The government sought to establish through Doyle's testimony that McKay-Dembinsky, Inc., a corporation whose stock was owned half by Mr. and Mrs. McKay and half by Abe Dembinsky and his relatives, in effect was virtually a one-man organization. Dembinsky was indebted to the firm to the extent of $30,000 or more, the government contends, and for that reason was not in a position to dictate policies while McKay was a creditor of the corporation for at least a like amount, enabling him to exercise financial control.

The government is attempting to apply this theory to a series of transactions involving Isadore Schwartz and Charles Leiter, two of McKay's co-defendants in the mail fraud case. Since McKay controlled the company, the government attarneys argue, he benefitted by the pledging of $30,000 worth of collateral by Schwartz and Leiter to secure a $7,000 loan which the government contends they never intended to repay. The difference between the actual value of the collateral and the amount of the loan, the government charges, represents a portion of the so-called $500,000 liquor graft "shakedown" charged as a basis for the mail fraud indictment.

Accounts Transferred

The defense contends that the government's intricate theory, designed to establish a scheme to distribute political graft paid by distillers without disclosing the eventual disposition of the money, is false and that the correct explanation is a simple one.

Dembinsky advanced personal loans to Schwartz and Leiter over a period of years, defense attorneys maintain, and later transferred these accounts to the corporation. Schwartz and Leiter posted collateral to show their good faith and made one payment of $2,029.98 upon the principal of the obligation, the defense contends.

The government contends the

FORD PREPARES TO BACK UAW

Contract Hinges Only On Disposition of 26 NLRB Complaints

Pittsburgh, June 17 (AP)—Signing of a contract between the Ford Motor Company and the United Automobile Workers was reported tonight to be hinging solely upon disposition of 26 National Labor Relations Board complaints against the company.

The NLRB cases are those of men who claim they were discharged by the company for union activity within the last few years. Largest of the cases, covering more than 200 men, was being heard here but now is adjourned pending contract negotiations.

Company and union negotiators were in session late today with Philip Murray, CIO president. It first was planned to take the negotiations to Washington today but Murray was detained in Pittsburgh so the conferees decided to continue deliberations here.

The contract under discussion is understood to be the most far-reaching ever signed by an automobile manufacturer with the UAW-CIO.

Final withdrawal of all labor board cases against the company, it is reported, has been one of the company stipulations. Some sources have interpreted this as meaning the final contract will be applicable to the entire Ford organization and not merely to the River Rouge and Lincoln plants in which the UAW-CIO recently won employe bargaining rights.

A general formula for settling the labor board cases was worked out in the Detroit conferences, but details remained to be arranged. These included, it was understood, the amount of back pay to be given discharged employes.

I. A. Capizzi, Frank Nolan and Harry Mack head the 8-man committee conferring here for the company and R. J. Thomas, Alan Haywood, Maurice Sugar, William Taylor and George Addes are included among the union's representatives.

Harry Bennett, Ford personnel director, was to have participated in today's meeting but was detained in Washington.

Prentiss Is Home— For Three Reasons

St. Ignace, Mich., June 17 (AP)—Senator Prentiss M. Brown (D-Mich.) was at his home here for three good reasons.

There was a family reunion Sunday.

Yesterday he and Mrs. Brown observed their silver wedding anniversary.

Tomorrow is the Senator's 52nd birthday.

Russia Must Decide To Fight Germany Or Lose Territory

(By The Associated Press)

London, Wednesday, June 18—Basing their declarations on a flood of reports and political speculation from European capitals, oobservers in London today asserted that Russia soon must choose whether to fight Germany or yield to humiliating demands involving considerable tangible loss.

Usually authoritative sources here said Germany would make these demands on Soviet Russia as the price of peace:

1. Full control over all the rich oil and agricultural lands of the Ukraine.

2. Right of passage for German troops through the trans-Caucasian corridor, a route that would bypass Turkey and lay Suez open to attack from the east. This route would also bring the Germans into the oil fields of Iran and Iraq.

3. Right to established war industries in Soviet territory beyond the range of royal air force bombers.

4. Placing of Russian Baltic sea shipyards at Germany's disposal.

5. Demobilization of the Soviet western army.

For days the ambiguous relationship between Russia and Germany has been the chief topic of conversation in official circles throughout the old world.

War "Inevitable"

Advices from Ankara, Turkey, a clearing house for political rumor on the continent, quoted an informant connected with the Soviet army as saying Russian officers were openly asserting that war with Germany was inevitable.

The German embassy in Ankara announced tonight that telephone communications between Germany and southeast Europe was broken over 24 hours, apparently as a military measure.

Observers in London pointed to reports which indicate that Russia was preparing for a test of her military strength. A report from Helsinki, Finland, told of a general removal of troops by rail and ship from the Russian military base at Hanko. The Russians were reported enroute to Leningrad, Russia's chief port at the head of the Gulf of Finland.

(An Associated Press dispatch from Helsinki, telling of Russian evacuation of Hanko, telephoned through Germany to Bern, Switzerland, was cut off after the phrase—"eye witnesses reported seeing long Soviet trains * * *").

Roosevelt Doubts Guardsmen Will Be Serving Over Year

Washington, June 17 (AP)Voicing doubt that national guard troops would be retained more than a year on active duty, President Roosevelt said today that the matter was under study and that Secretary Stimson had told him yesterday he would have a report on it soon.

BUNKER COAL EXEMPTED

Lansing, June 17 (AP)—An act Governor Van Wagoner today exempts bunker coal from the state sales tax. Sponsors said the measure was needed to spare Michigan coaling ports the loss of sales to steamboats which would transfer their business to Wisconsin.

NAZI BOMBERS THROTTLED IN LIBYA THRUST

AXIS FORCE CAUGHT IN TRIANGLE BY BRITISH

(By The Associated Press)

Cairo, June 17—The battle resulting from the British thrust into Lybia developed fiercely today with hundreds of tanks employed on both sides and American-made airplanes declared by the British to be holding German dive-bombers at bay.

The British appeared to be attempting to cut off axis forces in the Egyptian border town of Salum by a double advance on their supporting positions of Fort Capuzzo and Halfaya (Hellfire) pass in Libya.

German troops in Salum would be caught in a triangle if the operation succeeded. They would be confronted by the British positions to the east, forming the apex of the triangle, and by spread out British held positions in their rear.

Counter-Attacks Fail

British military reported indicated the Germans and Italians, realizing the seriousness of the situation, had drawn on troops besieging Tobruk, 80 miles to the west, and were launching repeated and fierce counter-attacks.

Unofficial reports said wave after wave of these counter-attacks had been repulsed, with heavy losses to the axis forces. They said royal air force fighting planes, many of them American-built, were holding at bay the German Stuka dive-bombers which had come out to harass the British mechanized columns.

A military spokesman tonight reported the situation to be "still confused." Earlier in the day a communique had stated British forces in a surprise advance had penetrated to Fort Capuzzo and withstood several counter-attacks. Other reports added that the British had captured the German positions in Halfaya (Hellfire) pass, just outside Salum.

Convoys Attacked

(Berlin dispatches quoted the German official DNB news agency in the sense that the fighting was proceeding favorably for the axis forces.)

A battle was reported to have raged all day today atop the escarpment outside Salum, hundreds of tanks and armored cars participating. It was the second day of fierce fighting, which was described as the greatest battle of mechanized forces in north Africa

German Consul At Detroit Will Close Office On Orders

Detroit, June 17 (AP)—The German consul at Detroit, Fritz Hailer, will close the consulate when he receives official orders, but he intends to remain here to practice law.

Hailer, 54, came to Detroit as an immigrant in 1907 and is a naturalized citizen. He therefore will not be subject to the U. S. order which would deport all German nationals connected with the consulate offices.

Michigan Will Feel War Pinch, Says Lund

Lansing, June 17 (AP)—Wendell L. Lund, secretary of the state administrative board, said today the office of production management has assured him defense needs will not bring a halt in the sale of iron and steel to the state for building and highway purposes, at least for the present, but that Michigan will feel some pinch from defense priorities.

Officials of the state highway department had voiced fears priorities would disrupt the summer road construction program.

Lund said it would be impossible to purchase aluminum utensils, used by institutions because they are light, unbreakable and may not be used as dangerous weapons by inmates.

Ball-bearings and machine tools for the state prison industries may be difficult to obtain at times, he said, but probably not sufficiently so to interfere seriously with production. Prison industries has its biggest backlog of business in many years, and had voiced a fear the defense program might make it impossible to continue large scale operations which provide employment for convicts.

Lund said the industries could obtain plenty of seisal for manufacture of binder twine. He said steel for 1942 automobile license plates, produced by the industries, already has been bought and that it probably would be possible to buy metal for that purpose as needed.

"That doesn't mean there may not be some delays," Lund said, "and it doesn't mean things will be the same six months from now. But I don't think things are serious yet."

He said the OPM advised the state to let its contracts and then, should the contractor have difficulty obtaining materials, to notify the federal agency through prearranged official procedure.

The conservation department reported difficulty obtaining steel to complete recreational projects, and Milton P. Adams, secretary of the state stream control commission, said several sugar beet factories have asked for state aid to obtain machinery essential to reduce pollution of streams.

The oil advisory board has "suggested" that oil producers enlarge drilling spacing of oil wells and to reduce off-shoot drilling to save steel, hinting that compulsory curtailment would be ordered if it did not come voluntarily.

Low Cost Housing Act Approved By Michigan Governor

Lansing, June 17. (AP)—Governor Van Wagoner today signed an immediately effective act authorizing incorporated cities and villages to sponsor low-cost housing projects for the benefit of defense workers in areas where a housing shortage exists.

It allows the local governments to obtain land and financial aid from receipts of the state land office board to sponsor building programs.

The measure was one of 40 signed into law today, following yesterday's deluge of 59 which received the governor's signature.

The first of the big budget bills went past his desk receiving the executive O. K., a bill allowing the University of Michigan an appropriation of $4,804,000.

Tax Exemptions Granted

Van Wagoner signed another immediately effective law granting more generous exemptions under the intangible tax act, which Joseph H. Creighton ,head of the division collecting the levy, said would permit prompt distribution of local government's share of the $2,500,000 collected under the old law.

Creighton declined to discuss reports that a provision of the act exempting investments in building and loan associations would be tested in court, on grounds it discriminated against investments in bank stock, which are taxable. The act exempts from the levy any person whose tax would be $10 or less. The present top is $7. It also exempts royalties.

Creighton estimated the new exemptions would reduce revenues produced by the levy 20 or 30 per cent.

More New Laws

Other bills signed today will:

Relieve the prosecution of the necessity to prove intent in hit-and-run trials.

Allow counties to use a third of so-called second half distributions of gasoline and weight tax revenues for road improvements.

Simplify the state accounting system by cutting in half the number of special funds in the treasury.

Require that the chairman and vice chairman of county committees of political parties be of opposite sex.

Establish enforcement procedures to implement new constitutional amendments forbidding fraudulent signatures on initiatory referendum and constitutional amendment referendum petitions.

Allow county school board members per diem pay and expenses in amounts equal to the allowances to county supervisors.

Allow World War veterans who have completed two years of law school study or three years of study under a preceptor to take the state bar examination.

STIMSON LOOKS FOR LONG WAR

Great Lakes Waterway Pushed As Defense Measure

Washington, June 17 (AP)—With a warning that the war may last for years, Secretary Stimson today began an administration drive to obtain congressional approval of the $285,000,000 St. Lawrence seaway and power project as a measure important to national defense.

The secretary of war appeared before the house rivers and harbors committee, which is considering the administration proposal. He said the huge undertaking would be important in a military sense because (1) it would provide a more protected route part of the way for the transportation of supplies to England and (2) it would increase the amount of electric power available to operate arms industries.

Rep. Mansfield (D-Tex), referring to estimates that the project would take four years to construct, asked whether the present emergency would last long.

"In my opinion," Stimson said, "it is necessary to prepare for a very long emergency. We hope it will be briefer, but it is not safe to act on such a hope in such a situation as confronts us today."

At another point, he told the committee "you face the prospect of a long war."

The witness, who was secretary of state under Herbert Hoover, recalled that president had asserted that a St. Lawrence seaway would admit most ocean-going vessels to the Great Lakes, would benefit the midwest and provide power for the northeast.

Stimson asserted that development of 2,200,000 horsepower of electric energy "is a very important matter at this time of strain." He also asserted that the national defense would be furthered by increased shipbuilding on the Great Lakes.

British Aircraft-Carrier Illustrious Had Narrow Escape

London, Wednesday, June 18, (AP)—An admiralty statement based on official reports disclosed today that the aircraft carrier Illustrious was perilously near destruction when attacked by Nazi dive bombers in the Mediterranean on January 10.

At one time the ship careened in wide circles out of control under a rain of bombs while fires blazed aboard the ship and engine crews were barely able to remain below.

The Illustrious was attacked six times at sea and four more after it limped into harbor at Malta.

BID ON BUILDINGS

Fort Custer, Mich., June 17, (AP)—Capt. Alfred B. Plaenert, construction quartermaster, announced today that the Owen-Ames-Kimball Co. of Grand Rapids had submitted a bid of $374,400 for construction of four administration buildings and 16 maintenance units at Fort Custer. Capt. Plaenert said it was the only bid received.

Young Victims of Tragedy

Brothers Drowned In 'Death Trap' Lagoon Near Ludington Park

Tragedy and death struck in the Ludington Park lagoon yesterday afternoon — taking the lives of Ronald Richard Poquette, age nine, and Vernon Joseph Poquette, age eight, brothers, in a dual drowning.

The boys were the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Poquette, 1301 North 21st Street.

The bodies of the boys, lying in a narrow channel eight feet or more in depth located southwest of the Lagoon bridge, were pulled from the water by two older boys. Police officers and civilians, with doctors in attendance, administered artificial respiration with the aid of an inhalator for two hours, but to no avail, with several hundred persons looking on.

The bodies were pulled from the water by Adelore Boudreau, 818 Second Avenue South, and Eddie Blau, 21 South Sixteenth Street. Boudreau then ran across the wide dredged-up beach to the site of the nearest telephone and summoned police. Bud Beauchamp, another youth, assisted the two others in attempting to revive the young drowning victims.

Describe Tragedy

Boudreau and Blau told officers they were summoned to the scene of the dual drowning by the cries of another small boy, Billy Anderson, whom young bathers said had been playing in the water with the Poquette brothers.

"I think my friends are drowning", the Anderson child cried, according to the boys who rushed to the scene of the tragedy. Boudreau and Blau had been swim-

ENGLAND USES SECRET WEAPON

Radio Location Device Gives Warning of Enemy Planes

London, Wednesday, June 18, (AP) — Britain today officially divulged her best-kept secret of the war with the announcement that radio location—a scientific device which warns of approaching planes miles away—is her great mystery defense against German raiders.

Air Chief Marshal Sir Philip Joubert, who described how the device performs, said that for security reasons the operational methods of the weapon still were a close secret but that radio location, which started an entirely new military art, works this way:

Electric waves not affected by darkness and fog are sent out. These become distant outposts constantly "manned" by wireless electronic watchmen which send back a signal of any object coming into its path. It keeps a 24-hour watch.

The device was given much credit for winning the battle of Britain last fall. Sorely overworked RAF fighters, through radio location, were relieved of keeping up standing patrols and relied on the weapon to tell them in plenty of time when the raiders were coming and from what direction.

It was said that radio location has had a tremendous influence on air, military and naval strategy.

Traffic Toll

Pontiac, Mich., June 17 (AP)—Mrs. Claribell Zalabak, 26, of Detroit, today became the third victime of an automobile collision on M-15 near Clarkston Monday. Her death followed the deaths of her father, Frank DeMay, 65, and her seven-month-old-son, John.

Adrian, Mich., June 17, (AP)—Injuries received in an automobile accident Monday night proved fatal today to Leonard A. Robinson, 41, of Blissfield.

NATION SEEKS CONTROL OVER NAZI CITIZENS

SUBVERSIVE MOVES WATCHED CLOSELY IN WASHINGTON

Washington, June 17, (AP)—United States border patrols and customs men were ordered tonight to prevent any of the 330,000 German nationals in the United States from leaving the country "pending further instructions."

The official explanation given was that the government wanted to assure compliance with President Roosevelt's order "freezing" foreign funds in the United States and forbidding their removal without permission.

Reprisals Expected

However, other reasons were hinted at. One official pointed out that the restrictions would give the government an opportunity to control the movement of Germans into Mexico and South America, where there is alleged to have been considerable subversive activity on behalf of the axis countries.

There was known also to be some concern among officials concerning the possibility of reprisals abroad for recent United States steps affecting Germany. Some government men expressed belief it would be well to establish a "status quo" concerning German nationals here until the situation is clarified.

It was pointed out also that the order would have the effect of controlling the departure of German nationals while congress considers pending legislation which would give President Roosevelt power to control departures from the United States as well as entries. These powers would be identical with the authority provided during the World war by an act of May 22, 1918.

Many Seek Citizenship

The order went forward through the customs and immigration services. They were told to "cover all possible means of departure, including vessels, trains, buses, airplane and international border roads so that no German national may leave the country without having fully complied with the executive order and the regulations." (The credits freezing order was referred to.)

While the order technically affects 330,000 Germans, it was plain that the great majority of these have no intention of leaving the country. About 60 per cent of them have applied for American citizenship.

German consuls and employes of three allied propaganda agencies were ordered yesterday to leave the country by July 10. While today's order, issued by the justice and treasury departments, was in seeming contradiction, it was expected that the consuls, at least, would be permitted to depart when the government made sure that they were not carrying away assets in violation of the freezing order.

Consuls Suspected

President Roosevelt said today the German consuls were ordered out because they had been engaging in subversive activities. And, he added, the word subversive includes a lot of sins. The action was taken, he said, not because of any new activities on their part but because of an accumulation of them in the past.

These were the outward developments of this country's increasingly irritated relations with Germany which assumed their latest sharply-spoken stage with word of the sinking of the American ship Robin Moor. Sumner Welles, the undersecretary of state, said during the day that the fact that all the ship's passengers and crew were saved had no bearing on this country's attitude toward

The War News Analyzed

BY KIRKE L. SIMPSON

Just a year ago yesterday (Tuesday) France collapsed, and Britain decided to fight on undismayed—a decision which now seems to be well vindicated.

There seems now no reasonable doubt that French surrender a year ago was based very largely on the expectation of the Petain regime that Britain also must yield and seek a negotiated peace. If only to save London and all England from German air bombing and even invasion, defeat-crushed French leaders foresaw that result.

That the axis mates in Berlin and Rome shared that expectation goes without saying. Yet twelve months later Britain still stands. Her world-girdling frontiers of empire are unbreached. The fighting will of her people is unbroken, and her means both of defense and of attack are vastly greater than a year ago and steadily increasing.

On this June 17, despite intervening defeats and discouragements and a twelve-month of air attack such as no other nation has ever known, Britain is on the offensive rather than purely the defensive. Her armies and her fleets of air and sea in Egypt, North Africa and in Syria are striking out, not merely waiting to be attacked. Her assault bombers at home are dealing heavy air blows across the channel and over Germany itself.

That is a far cry from the plight in which Britain stood that black June 17 of 1940. Her peril is grave, but imponderable forces are at work across the Atlantic and even in the increasing strain on relations between Russia and Germany that could help her through the critical six months ahead.

Just why there has been a substantial and prolonged lull in Nazi air attack on England it is difficult to determine. That it is the prelude to a new and more terrible storm somewhere cannot be doubted. Time is working definitely against the axis as America fashions her "arsenal of democracy."

Implicit in the Russo-German crisis, featured by vast armies reported massed against each other from the Baltic to the Black sea, is the possibility that Hitler with a captured or overawed continent under his heel must seek greater stocks of food, of oil, of vital war materials than all his victories have yet won. Many informed observers read that answer to the Moscow-Berlin riddle.

If it is the explanation of the crisis, it means that Germany has accepted the probability of a long war, despite Hitler's frequent boast that 1941 would bring a complete axis victory. That of itself would tremendously encourage the British and their American sympathizers.

Yet by every Hitlerian precedent, it is not for a prolonged seige the fuehrer is preparing but for some tremendous new stroke of blitzkreig war, be it against British life lines in the east or against England itself. That is the obvious expectation in Britain. It explains British offensive moves by land in the east and by air in the west on this first anniversary of the fall of France.

Tenth District CPT Air Courses Announced By CAA

Lansing, June 17, (AP)—The civil aeronautics administration today announced quotas for flight courses this summer by the civilian pilot training service in cooperation with nine Michigan colleges of the 10th district.

H. J. Maley, district maintenance supervisor, said the courses would start Thursday.

Quotas announced include 10 students at Grand Rapids Junior college and 10 at the University of Grand Rapids. A non-college program also is being arranged at Grand Rapids, Maley said.

Henry Ford Gives Navy His Yacht

Detroit, June 17 (AP)—Henry Ford, founder of the Ford Motor Co., presented the United States Navy with his 137-foot yacht, Truant, which is equipped with a powerful steam engine which the manufacturer himself designed.

The vessel was built for service as a patrol craft in the World War and was used in the Atlantic Ocean in 1918. Before Ford purchased it for a yacht, the Truant was used as a training ship by the naval reserve.

The Truant has never left the drydock of the Great Lakes Steel Corp. shipyard since Ford became its owner five years ago, but during that time it has been completely refitted.

Detroit Vice Case Defendant Is Dead

Detroit, June 17, (AP)—Carl A. Brooks, 51-year-old suspended Dearborn police chief under indictment for alleged protection of vice, died today following an illness of several weeks.

A former president of the Michigan Association of Police Chiefs, Brooks declared at the time of his indictment by Circuit Judge Homer Ferguson's one-man grand jury that "I will never see the inside of the court."

Brooks, a former chief of the Ford Motor Co. service department was named chief of the Dearborn police force in 1929 when the city governments of Dearborn and Fordson were combined.

U. S. Orders All German Consulates Closed

the incident. President Roosevelt declined to comment at his press conference.

But the chief executive did fan the growing speculation over the possibility that Italian consuls would be expelled with a cryptic but perhaps revealing statement. He said, in reply to a question, that there was no news on that subject today.

The president was asked, too, about the possibility of arming American merchant ships and replied that since 1918 the government has had plans ready for such action. But when a reporter inquired whether they had been taken from the files he said no such action had been taken at his request.

During the day the American case against Germany for the sinking of the Robin Moor was declared complete and officials indicated that at the very least a stern protest and warning would be lodged.

Survivors At Capetown

Welles made it clear that the government's charges of inhumane conduct on the part of the submarine's commander were unaffected by the rescue of the 35 missing survivors landed at Capetown yesterday. They previously had been given up for lost.

The government's position, Welles said, remained identical with what it was before: That the submarine's conduct was counter to every law of humanity and international morality, as well as international agreements, in that it failed to assure the safety of passengers and crew.

The American consul general at Capetown was instructed to take depositions from the 35 survivors there and cable a summary to the state department.

On the basis of testimony supplied by the 11 survivors landed in Brazil last week, however, Welles asserted that sufficient evidence was available to determine a course of action.

The depositions of the 11 were brought to Washington today by Philip P. Williams, a secretary of the American embassy at Rio de Janeiro.

Welles said these were being studied and that with the summary expected soon from Capetown, the government should be in a position to reach final conclusions in the near future.

BERLIN PROTESTS
(By The Associated Press)

Berlin, June 17—Germany announced tonight she was taking immediate retaliatory "necessary measures" against American assets in the reich and lodged a "sharpest protest" against the American order closing Nazi consulates.

This was the specific reaction to President Roosevelt's order freezing German funds in the United States, although there was no concrete indication of what the German measures would be; there was no hint of possible German reprisals against U. S. consulates in Germany.

The official news agency DNB said Germany rejected "as unfounded and despotic" the American charges that German consulates and other organizations engaged in "inadmissible activities."

Conduct Questioned

The text of the protest was not released, but the DNB communique said:

"The North American government in a note on June 16 requested the German charge d'affaires to direct German consular officials within its sovereign territory as well as members of the German Library of Information, the Transocean Agency, and the railway company, to leave the United States.

"The basis given for the request was that the involved German officials had conducted themselves in an inadmissible manner. The reich's government has rejected these charges as unfounded and despotic and made the sharpest protest against the North American government's action which is contrary to agreement."

Tit for Tat

The Nazi spokesman who announced Germany would take counter measures against American assets said the U. S. had committed a long series of "provocative acts."

It was obvious that developments were regarded here as of the utmost importance, and there was an air of gravity in offices where German-American relations were considered.

In the announcement concerning counter measures to the freezing of German assets, there was no concrete indication of what these measures would be.

It was pointed out in American circles that a mere tit for tat, such as freezing American assets in the reich, would have comparatively little effect on American interests. For years American assets here have been subject to such strict control that to a degree they already are frozen.

There was no report tonight from any quarter that American businessmen or others had in any respect been made aware of the imposition of counter measures.

Whatever new measures are adopted, observers here are inclined to believe that use of the word "freezing" to describe them might be to employ a misnomer.

Italy Has Advantage

(The Italian government blocked all payments from Italy on private debts to Americans. Fascist spokesmen estimated that in countering the United States government's freezing of Italian credits, Italy would have a two to one financial advantage, since American investments in Italy are reckoned at $145,000,000 against Italian investments in America of from $60,000,000 to $65,000,000.

(Virginio Gayda, the authoritative Fascist editorialist, asserted that U. S. economic and financial action against the axis was in effect "an open declaration of economic war" which might lead to outright war.)

As to the closing of all German consulates in the United States, ordered yesterday by Washington, an authorized spokesman remarked that Germany for the moment was saying nothing.

He would not comment whether there had been a fundamental change in U. S.-German relations. Asked whether Germany still took the position that she would "not be provoked by anything America does," he responded:

"That can not be confirmed today."

CAN'T LEAVE COUNTRY

Washington, June 17 (AP)—The United States, seeking "to insure compliance" with President Roosevelt's order freezing foreign funds, tonight directed its border patrol and customs men to prevent any German national from leaving the country "pending further instructions."

The treasury and justice department joined in an announcement that orders had been issued to customs and immigration officials to "cover all possible means of departure, including vessels, trains, buses, airplane and international border roads, so that no German national may leave the country without having fully complied with the executive order and the regulations."

Justice officials declined to say why the order applied only to Germans, inasmuch as the president's order froze the funds of all continental European countries not previously frozen. There was some speculation that an extension of the order was ready, if it appeared necessary, in the case of nationals of some other country.

Officials declined to say how this new step tied in with the president's order yesterday closing German consulates and alleged propaganda agencies and ordering their personnel to leave the United States by July 10. It was made clear, however, that no German would be permitted to leave this country until assurances had been given covering compliance with the "freezing" order.

GLAMOR BOY WEDS

New York, June 17 (AP)—Victor Mature, current glamor boy of the stage, and Martha Stephenson Kemp, widow of Hal Kemp, the orchestra leader, were married tonight in the bride's Park Avenue apartment by New York Supreme Court Justice Ferdinand Pecora.

Brothers Drowned In Lagoon Near Ludington Park

ming near the Lagoon bridge, further from the mainland. Other boys playing on the sand said they noticed the Poquette boys "ducking each other and shoving each other" about in the water, but did not comprehend the meaning of the Anderson child's tears before he ran over toward the Lagoon bridge to summon the older boys.

"Death Trap"

The spot where the two boys were drowned was and is a "death trap for children", police and other adults stated. While the channel between the sand leading out to the bridge and a small isle is only about 40 feet wide, it is at some points nine feet or more in depth. Six steps will take one from water six inches deep into water over the head of an adult. There are no signs to warn swimmers and no lifeguards.

The city has not officially designated a bathing beach for 1941, but adult swimmers said the only gradual and safe slope for inexperienced swimmers and children is that on the outside of the strip of land beyond the Lagoon bridge. There is no road leading out to that strip of beach, however, and it is far removed from the bathhouse on the shore proper. WPA lifeguards, attending a training camp, have not taken over their duties this summer.

The Survivors

Ronald Richard Poquette was born Aug. 19, 1931. Vernon Joseph was born March 15, 1933.

In addition to their parents, the young drowning victims are survived by four sisters, Mrs. Octave Gerou, Betty Poquette, Verna Poquette and Annette Poquette, Vernon Poquette, youngest of the drowned boys, was the twin of Verna.

Ronald was a fourth grade student at St. Anne's school, Vernon a second grade student at Webster school.

The bodies will lie in state at the Allo funeral home his evening. Funeral services, (the Libra only, since Friday will be the Feast of the Sacred Heart), will be held at St. Anne's church Friday morning at 10 o'clock. The funeral mass will be held at St. Anne's Saturday morning at 8:30 o'clock, with Father J. E. Guertin conducting.

Charles Kauppi Is Under $1,000 Bond To Circuit Court

Munising, Mich., June 17, (AP)—Arraigned in justice court here today on a charge of negligent homicide, Charles Kauppi of Gay, Mich., waived examination and was bound over to the October term of court under $1,000 bond, which he furnished.

A coroner's jury found that the death of Wayne Pelkki, son of Mr. and Mrs. Toivo Pelkki of Chatham, on June 9 was due to negligence on the part of Kauppi. The car driven by the latter, it is alleged, struck the child while he was playing on the street.

Plans Ready For Arming Of U.S. Merchant Ships

Washington, June 17, (AP)—President Roosevelt asserted today that the United States had plans ready—and had had them since 1918—for the arming of American merchant ships.

Asked whether there had been any thought given to arming such vessels as a result of the sinking of the American steamer Robin Moor, Mr. Roosevelt told a press conference that he supposed every chief of naval operations had had a plan in the safe since 1918.

"Have they come out of the safe yet?" a reported inquired.

Not at his request, the chief executive replied.

Mr. Roosevelt preferred not to comment on the sinking of the Robin Moor, for which the state department has held a Nazi submarine responsible.

The British said their planes were strafing axis supply convoys all the way back through Cirenaica and systematically attacking the principal air bases along the Libyan coast.

The fleet air arm was cooperating, they said, and had started large fires among military vehicles at Bardia, some thirty miles from the fighting zone.

(Berlin said the British have been suffering heavy losses, including 100 armored motor units up to noon Monday. The Berlin radio declared the British tank losses totaled the strength of a regiment.

(The German high command communique less specifically reported British tank losses "were increased considerably" in a developing battle between strong forces.)

BOULOGNE IS TARGET

London, June 17 — British bombers flying in a sandwich formation between layers of fighters attacked French coastal objectives tonight in fierce continuation of the RAF's new super-bomb offensive, stepped up by the increased flow of American-built planes.

Late tonight, authoritative sources said that 13 German planes had been destroyed over the English Channel and over Nazi-occupied France against the loss of 10 British craft.

It was the seventh consecutive night attack across the channel, and Boulogne seemed to be the chief target once more.

Watchers on the English coast said at least 150 British bombers and fighters participated. One fighter detachment flew six to seven miles above the surface and the other low over the water, with bombers between.

Authoritative sources earlier had disclosed that the new superbomb offensive, aided by American planes, was under way.

(A Berlin dispatch reported 20 British planes shot down at a cost of only one German plane in a series of dogfights over Calais and Boulogne late this afternoon.)

Royal air force planes last night attacked wide sections of German territory, directing their main blasts at Cologne, Duesseldorf, Duisburg, Boulogne and Dunkerque.

The arrival of American-made planes in Britain, it was stated, is permitting her to risk higer losses of planes, and is releasing her biggest bombers for attack.

The effect of these latest attacks has been much greater than those of last fall because now hundreds rather than scores of bombers are taking part, it was said.

(Berlin's high command, stating that the British attackers hit "individual industrial plants and rail facilities," said 26 British planes had been shot down over a 24-hour period.)

The Germans made small raids on England during the past 24 hours, it was announced, and lost 14 planes.

DAMASCUS DOOMED

Cairo, June 17, (AP)—British and Free French forces fighting their way into Syria were reported nearing the city of Damascus tonight, pushing slowly down into the plains of the capital after having reached the hills overlooking them.

The British Middle East command reported the capture of "several further positions" in the region about Kissoue, 10 miles south of Damascus, and heavy fighting was reported under way tonight.

(A dispatch direct from Damascus said the booming of cannon could be heard in the capital and that the battle was believed coming near.)

The British command acknowledged "strong counterattacks" by the French in the central sector in the vicinity of Merdjayoun and Kuneitra.

In Vichy, military dispatches reported the capture by French defenders of Merdjayoun and Kuneitra.

(The French reported they also were on the offensive in the region of Kissoue and Derra, on the eastern salient about ten miles south of Damascus.)

British and Free French forces captured Kuneitra on June 7, the first day of their attack, and Merdjayoun fell to them a week ago. Both towns are about 40 miles southwest of Damascus, the Syrian capital.

British dispatches tonight said that the British still held Merdjayoun, however, in denial of French reports that the city had been recaptured by the French Monday.

The British command stated that "heavy fighting" was in progress in both the Merdjayoun and Kuneitra sectors, and that British and Free French reinforcements were being rushed to the scene.

NEW EVIDENCE WITHHELD IN McKAY CASE

McKay-Dembinsky books show no payment by Schwartz or Leiter, and that the $2,029.98 credit to their account belonged properly to McKay, who paid a like sum from his personal bank account toward the corporation's income taxes. The defense produced a receipt in an effort to show McKay, as treasurer of the company, collected the money and used it to pay the corporation's tax.

Judge Lederle fired a parting question at Doyle as he left the stand today after completing four days of testimony concerning his audits of the McKay-Dembinsky books.

"These books do reflect that Mr. McKay paid an obligation owed the corporation by Schwartz and Leiter, don't they?" he asked.

"That's right," the witness replied.

Grand Marais Art School To Present An Indian Pageant

Grand Marais—Outstanding authorities in the arts will gather here this summer for the first session of the Grand Marais summer school of arts and crafts, scheduled July 7 to August 7. "The school will go on," Mrs. Mary E. Raiola, its co-ordinator and principal organizer, declares, "even though draft boards have upset some of the plans." Several teachers engaged for the school have been drafted into military service.

Among the instructors will be Mrs. Mary Dickerson Donahey, an established writer of juvenile stories and an annual summer visitor here, and Mrs. Raiola. Mrs. Raiola, who is an American, organized the American Classical summer school for teachers in Naples, Italy. She holds an honorary life membership in the National Arts club, of New York City, and is an honorary member of the Pen and Brush club, of New York, of which Ida M. Tarbell, famous writer, is president. Mrs. Tarbell and Mrs. Raiola are close friends.

Drama To Be Featured

Drama will be featured at the school this year, Mrs. Raiola said. "We intend to present the 'Wedding Feast of Hiawatha,' with music. The work connected with that presentation will be intended to give students a practical and constructive course in drama. Besides that subject, courses will be offered in English literature and classics, archaeology of Greek and Roman excavations; how to write stories; music; painting; photography; botany, basket weaving, and bookbinding.

The school will be open to the public. Hotels, tourist cabins, private rooming houses will be available as students' quarters.

"The Wedding Feast of Hiawatha" will be presented afternoons on July 31 and August 1 and 2 on the Au Sable sand dunes, "Nagow Wudjoo." Samuel Coleridge-Taylor, composer of the music, was born in London August 15, 1875, and died September 1, 1912. His trilogy, "Hiawatha," consisted of three separate works, "Hiawatha's Wedding Feast," "The Death of Minnehaha" and "Hiawatha's Departure." While the latter two have much interest, they have never gained the popular success of the first.

Inspired By "Buffalo Bill"

It is said that Coleridge-Taylor received his inspiration for the music through his meeting with Col. William F. Cody ("Buffalo Bill") when he brought his wild west show to Europe in 1887. "The Wedding Feast" was produced in 1898.

Coleridge-Taylor, a negro, was regarded as the foremost composer of his race. He visited the United States in 1904, 1906 and 1910.

"The Wedding Feast" and "The Death of Minnehaha" were presented in this country for the first time by the Theodore Thomas orchestra (now known as the Chicago Symphony orchestra) in Omaha, Neb., under the direction of Thomas James Kelly, now of Cincinnati.

SULFA METHOD SAVES EYESIGHT

Indian Medical Service Develops Effective Treatment

BY WILLIAM McMENAMIN
United Press Staff Correspondent

Phoenix, Ariz. (UP)—Discovery of a treatment for trachoma, dread eye disease, that may save the sight of millions of persons all over the world, has been announced by the U. S. Indian medical service.

After eight years of intensive experiments with many types of drugs, the Indian service discovered that it could halt progress of the disease and even cure it by the use of sulfanilamide.

The result has been relief for 35,000 Indian sufferers from the "ancient scourge," as the disease is called and for a like number of white persons afflicted with the ailment. One-third of the Navajos are sufferers.

Caused by Virus

Eight years ago the Indian service medical staff began a serious campaign of experimentation with trachoma. They discovered that the disease was caused by a virus and not a "bacillus granulosis" as was believed formerly.

First experiments with the use of sulfanilamide pills were made on the Rosebud reservation in South Dakota by Dr. Fred Loe, Indian service physician.

Dr. Loe took two patients who had been treated externally for several years without improvement. He gave them internal doses of sulfanilamide daily for five days until their eyes cleared up. They were discharged at the end of a month, their cases described as "arrested."

Similar treatment of 200 other Indian victims of the disease met with success. Inflamed eyes cleared up and lost their aversion to light under the treatment. Patients were cured in an average of two weeks.

School Children Helped

The Indian service spread use of the treatment to all its reservations where sufferers were located. Many cures were achieved, first among school children and then among adults.

Until this treatment was discovered and tested, trachoma long had been one of the most baffling afflictions of mankind. It affected the eyes of the peoples of Palestine, Greece, Syria, Iran, Iraq, Egypt, Thailand and French Indo-China.

Medical experts estimated that one-third of the population of China and 98 per cent of the population of Egypt had suffered the disease. The malady is prevalent in Poland, Spain and Germany. Greece suffered an epidemic of it in 1922.

Wise But Belated

ACTION by the federal government, in ordering the closing of all German consulates and other official Nazi agencies in this country, will be widely recognized as a step that should have been taken long ago.

In some quarters, particularly among the interventionists who have been clamoring for the actual entrance of the United States in the European war, it will be recognized as another step toward actual participation in the European conflict. But it may not be that. It can be made the first drastic step toward the throttling, at its fountain head, the vast propaganda machine, that is admittedly operating in this country, in the instigation and promotion of many forms of subversive activity. Unquestionably, to these agencies can be traced most of the labor disturbances that have continually harried the defense program of the nation, since the beginning of our national defense effort.

Up to this time, as a nation, there has been only a half hearted, inefficient effort, to put out the fires of disloyal activities without attempting to remove the source of those fires.

If that is finally the intent of our government, the sweeping order closing all German consulates and abolishing official Nazi progaganda agencies in this country, the order will be recognized as a wise, but belated action. It need not mean actual participation in the European war.

Motorists Warned

WITH the heavy death toll of the Memorial Day week-end still fresh in mind, the Michigan state police have announced a campaign against reckless driving with a view of averting as many accidents as possible during the Fourth of July holidays.

The three-day holiday period from Friday to Sunday, July 4 to 6, should see a record-breaking number of automobiles on the road. Unless something is done to make drivers more conscious of the dangers facing them, there will be another ghastly list of deaths and injuries resulting from traffic accidents.

To make the campaign effective, the state police will need the cooperation of sheriff's departments, local police and the driving public. Probably the best educational measure would be to start arresting every reckless driver from this day on.

Slum Clearance

ESCANABA is steadily being made more attractive as a result of the city's policy of acquiring old, ramshackle buildings and razing them to make way for parks and playgrounds or some other community use. Old eyesores and fire hazards are thereby eliminated, and values of adjacent property enhanced.

The two greatest American cities are now both engaged in a real effort to solve the slum problem. The states of New York and Illinois have passed laws aimed to stimulate redevelopment of urban areas which have "gone back," especially in New York City and Chicago.

Hitherto no city has been able to solve this problem. A central area of a city degenerates into a slum. But being central, values remain high. Private persons who might wish to buy tottering slum building to tear them down and replace them with modern, planned areas, cannot do so with any chance of financial success. Such slum elimination as has been accomplished has usually had to come at government expense, in short, at the expense of the general taxpayer.

The new attack aims at creating conditions such that private capital will be able to function in the situation. The New York act permits all municipalities in the state to offer special inducements to private corporations to build large-scale, low-rent housing projects. The inducements include 10 years' immunity from any real property taxes in excess of those paid when the property was a slum; right to condemn property in an area needed for such a development as soon as 51 per cent of it has been acquired. On the other hand, the development corporation is subject to control by municipal planning authorities, who must approve the building and financing plans.

The Chicago plan is similar, granting power of condemnation after 61 per cent of the site has been acquired.

It will be highly interesting to see how these plans work out in two of the greatest centers of urban population. The problem is one which every city faces in some degree, and present conditions do not encourage any mass attack upon it by private capital. When present conditions offer no incentive that will attract investment, the only thing to do is to change some of the conditions relating to tax policies, condemnation, planning, financing, and the like.

That is what New York and Chicago are trying to do, and every city which has a blighted area will do well to study carefully the results they obtain.

Good News

NEWS of the safe arrival of the 35 missing passengers of the Robin Moor at Capetown comes as a great relief to the general public, which has been greatly concerned over the torpedoing of the American merchant vessel at sea. Like the rescue of the passengers aboard the Str. Zamzam it serves to prevent the incitement of war hysteria among the American people.

Testimony of the officers aboard the Robin Moor, however, appears to indicate that the Berlin government has instructed its sea raiders to destroy every American vessel engaged in commerce, whether carrying contraband or not. This is to be expected, however, since we have pledged ourselves to give full material aid to Britain. If we are to insist upon our traditional right of freedom of the seas, it appears that eventually our navy will have to fight to preserve that right.

Stamp Plan Approved

ESTABLISHMENT of the food stamp plan for distributing surplus commodities has been ordered by the United States department of agriculture for Delta and nine other counties in the Upper Peninsula. The other counties affected are: Alger, Baraga, Dickinson, Gogebic, Iron, Keweenaw, Marquette, Ontonagon and Schoolcraft.

Expectations are that the plan will go into operation early in July. Welfare officials and others interested have been working hard for several months to secure approval of this program. It is quite likely if they had not devoted so much of their time and effort they would not have been successful, for many other counties in the nation still remain on the waiting list.

Wholesalers and retailers, particularly, will welcome the stamp plan as it will mean the return of a considerable amount of food business to the normal channels of trade.

The Growing State Guards

FEW people realize how rapidly the State Guard idea has been growing. Twenty-eight states now have such guard units, with authorized strength of more than 110,000 men. Roughly half of these are now getting weekly instruction, the Council of State Governments finds.

Each state has its own law establishing such guards, with the result that there is considerable variation in matters like uniforms, which run from blue through khaki to "Confederate gray" in South Carolina.

As they become better organized, trained and equipped, they should provide the complete answer for any groups who are tempted to function on an amateur vigilante basis. For these there is no place. Only regularly authorized, responsible law-enforcement and protection services have any place in today's picture.

THE VITAL WATERWAY
(Grand Rapids Press)

Introduction of the great lakes-St. Lawrence seaway bill in congress and the president's prompt and outright backing of the measure has revived hopes that a beginning of the realization of this project may be accomplished this year after all, even though it faces bitter opposition.

Part of this opposition will come from intrenched interests which have always blocked the lakes-to-sea plan. Part will come from a wholly sincere group which believes that expenditure of a few hundred millions on this project now would not be wise on the ground that the program is not one which would serve defense needs.

President Roosevelt has answered this latter group rather ably with the statement that under emergency pressure the project could be completed in less than four years, adding: "I would like to agree with those who say that the country's danger will be over sooner than that, but the course of world events gives no such assurances; and we have no right to take chances with the national safety."

The fact is that no man knows what lies ahead. There are many today who would rejoice if the seaway had been approved in 1934 and were now completed and ready to serve the immediate defense needs. Is there sound reason for taking a chance again that these needs will not be present four years hence?

The transportation and shipbuilding potentialities of great lakes harbors and the power facilities of the St. Lawrence should be made ready to serve the nation in the years ahead, regardless of immediate emergencies. Even if peace should come there will be years of work in which reconstruction of commerce will be a paramount job. It is quite possible that half the world's shipping may be wiped out before this conflict is over. The great lakes ought to be preparsd to contribute their share toward rehabilitation.

"Too little and too late" has been the sad refrain of democratic action through too many recent years. It would be tragic indeed if the nation should awake tomorrow to find the seaway project a needed but neglected necessity. The president has noted this in his observation that "too many people have already underestimated the degree to which our resources will be taxed."

"I know of no single project of this nature more important to this country's future in peace or war," Mr. Roosevelt added. Certainly part of the defense effort today is a building for the future of the land.

If the approval or rejection of this measure is to hinge on its applicability to the defense task at hand the case in its favor can certainly be made as strong and stronger than that against it. And from the general economic standpoint the preponderance of testimony always has been in its favor, with opposition carried on to a large degree by selfish interests which look only to their own immediate advantage.

As a defense issue let the case rest on this question: Will the seaway be worth more or less to the country four years hence than four or five battleships at comparable cost? If it is valid to oppose this project on the grounds that the defense crisis may be ended within the next four years why is it not also valid to assert that the battleships we are building should be abandoned for similar reason? It takes four years to complete a dreadnaught, too.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY PEARSON AND ALLEN

Washington—Dr. Herbert Scholz, once Hitler's confidential representative in the German Embassy, is now Nazi consul in Boston. Coming to Washington on the train the other day he bumped into an old friend—an American.

They had known each other for many years and fell to chatting quite frankly about the war.

"How soon are you going to use convoys?" asked the German consul.

"Soon, I hope," replied his friend.

"That means breaking diplomatic relations," replied Scholz. Then he added: "Of course we expect you to be in the war. We've counted on that. However, in this war America will never send an expeditionary force. The American people won't stand for it; that's one thing we're sure of."

"I don't see that at all," replied the friend. "Our navy is stronger than ever before. We were able to convoy troop ships in the last war and I see no reason why we cannot do it in this war. After all, it was an expeditionary force which turned the tide in the last war, wasn't it?"

The German consul admitted this was true. He seemed upset and asked several times if his friend felt certain that the United States would send an expeditionary force. He kept saying that sentiment in the Middle West wouldn't permit it, and came back to the subject frequently.

Note—In diplomatic circles one explanation for the sinking of the Robin Moor is that Germany now figures the United States will come into the war no matter what happens, but is confident that no expeditionary force will be sent until Hitler has administered the final stroke to England.

—ON AGAIN, OFF AGAIN MURRAY—

Behind - the - scenes developments last week indicate that the anti-Red forces inside the CIO will not get very much help from Phil Murray in their drive to purge the organization of key-placed Kommie leaders.

No leftist himself, Murray seems afraid of a showdown with the left-wingers and bent on appeasement.

The anti-Reds say they are determined to clean house even if it splits the CIO wide open. The leftists, fearful of being isolated, will play every trump card to hold Murray in line to protect them. This strategy was very apparent last week.

When Murray finally blasted O. M. Orton, leftist head of the Woodworkers Union and then condemned the outlaw plane strike at Inglewood, Calif., the antis were jubilant. But two days after the Army took over the North American plant, Murray suddenly reversed himself and sharply criticized the seizure.

Behind that statement was some maneuvering by Harry Bridges, leftist Pacific Coast leader. Sensing the wave of public ire at the Kommies, Bridges cannily decided it was time for them to duck for cover.

He had endorsed the strike, but hurriedly he switched and recommended that work be resumed. Also, he sent word to leftist leaders of the outlaw strike of Cleveland die-casters to pull in their horns—an order they obeyed promptly.

—BRIDGES AND CURRAN—

Bridges followed this up by a message to his East Coast pal, Joe Curran, head of the CIO Maritime Workers, to arrange a get-together between Orton and Murray. Only a few insiders know that it was Bridges, working through Curran, who arranged this peace meeting. Orton gave the impression that he was making the trip from Seattle to Washington at the request of Murray. But Curran sat in on their meeting.

Bridges knows that the leftists, while in control of key places in a number of CIO unions, numerically are weak and would be easy to oust in a determined fight. He seeks to forestall such a purge by playing on Murray's fears of a split of the CIO.

So the leftists are plying him with assurances that hence-forth they will be "good boys" and lay off the rough stuff. Murray apparently has accepted these promises and is now seeking to restore "peace" between the warring factions.

Note — It was significant that Murray conferred with Orton and Curran in his office in the United Mine Workers building, one floor above the vast, ornate office of John L. Lewis. Also significant: Lee Pressman, leftist general counsel of the CIO and a close Lewis lieutenant, participated in the talks.

—HARD TO REMEMBER—

A "mental wizard" at the first anniversary dinner of the Washington Radio Correspondents Association went among the guests and asked them to name "something hard to remember" for him to identify. One of those he asked was New Jersey's massive GOP Senator W. Warren Barbour.

"Republican," Barbour shot back.

Note — A perambulating accordionist, stopping by Larry Fly, chairman of the Federal Communications Commission, brought down the house by playing "St. Louis Blues". It was at the St. Louis convention last month that Fly tangled with the National Broadcasters Association.

Hollywood—Behind the screen: Nothing but increasingly bad business could have persuaded any large number of theater owners to unite against the double bill. Visitors attending the exhibitors' convention here still weren't sure that second features were the villains in their 25 to 40 per cent box office tragedy, but most of them are willing to find out.

The fact that so many more people have money in their pockets these days, while fewer people have been going to movies, has been a shocking paradox to the flicker industry. The dealers in make-believe finally are realizing that the whole tempo of American life has changed.

People who are working don't go to a movie just to kill time; nor do they want to stumble out of theaters after midnight, wearyeyed and stiff from some interminable program, if they have to be at the factory at 8 o'clock in the morning.

Washington—Behind the latest Japanese action in announcing its intention of "breaking off economic negotiations" with the Netherlands East Indies is a long story of Tokyo's effort to dominate the business life of the 60 million people in the rich, tropical Pacific island empire of the Dutch. And don't think that the U. S. State Department isn't keeping a wary eye on the highly explosive situation.

Until the outbreak of the European war, Japanese relations with the Dutch East Indies were fairly peaceful. The East Indies were a fat market for Japan. So much so that during the depression years, the Dutch authorities had to restrict imports from Japan because they were simply flooding the market.

Despite this, even as late as 1937 Japan was milking the Indies cow. It sold there 124,438,000 guilders' worth of goods and only bought 42,229,000 worth. As a seller, it far excelled Holland in its own possession. It also excelled the United States.

As a buyer, it ranked way below Holland, Singapore and America. Americans bought the biggest part of the rubber, palm oil and tapioca produced in the Dutch East Indies and they ranked next to Holland in the purchase of Java coffee.

—FEAR JAPANESE MAY APE HITLER—

Japan was not then much concerned about its oil supply because it could buy what it wanted from the United States. But the European war made the Japanese fear the American oil market might no longer be available to them.

The Institute of the Pacific is a Japanese political organization. It publishes a magazine called "Pacific."

In November, 1939, this sheet demanded more oil and other products from the Dutch East Indies. With sinister emphasis it also recalled the famous "New Order" speech of Prince Konoye in 1938. Many fear that the Japanese New Order is like the Hitler New Order. It means grabbing other people's property—if they can get away with it.

In April, 1940, Japan proclaimed it would "protect" the Indies from any nation seeking to take advantage of the war situation. Holland promptly thanked Japan, but said it would look after its own property.

In May, 1940, Hitler ruthlessly conquered Holland. Japan again reaffirmed the desire to maintain the status quo in the Dutch East Indies, when Germany expressed no special interest in the islands. Almost immediately thereafter the Tokyo Foreign Office notified the Dutch Minister to Japan that it desired abrogation of the restrictions on Japanese exports, a guarantee of a minimum amount of supplies from the Indies and a conference on economic relations.

Tokyo named its mission. It was to be headed by General Kuniaki Koiso. Despite the fact that the Dutch have stood high as skillful and peaceful colonial managers, one of the general's first statements sounded like a familiar echo from Berlin:

"The East Indies as a colony long have been oppressed and exploited. We cannot tolerate such a condition."

—DEMANDS GOT THEIR DUTCH UP—

The government of the Dutch East Indies promptly said Koiso would be unacceptable. Therefore a new head was named for the mission. But even before it arrived at Batavia, Japanese agents were demanding 2,000,000 tons of crude oil annually. This was refused because of commitments to other buyers and also because it would de-prive Indies refineries of raw material.

In the fall of 1940, the Japanese mission arrived in Batavia. They did not talk economic relations. Their whole talk was oil. They finally got an agreement that Royal Dutch Shell should sell them 1,040,000 tons of refined oil and 700,000 tons of crude.

Then they demanded high octane gasoline, which they had reason to believe the United States would no longer sell them. The Dutch showed contracts by which England was the purchaser of all the Indies product. After consideration propaganda agitation in the Japanese papers about alleged anti-Japanese sentiment in the Indies, Japan sent a new delegation to Batavia in December, 1940.

It was headed by Kenkichi Yoshizawa, one-time Foreign Minister. He brought with him a formula very much like the one Hitler imposed upon Rumania.

Japan demanded oil concessions in Borneo, the right to explore the outer islands in search for possible valuable resources, the right to exploit these with Japanese labor, the entry of a considerable number of doctors and dentists for the Japanese colony, the right to participate in the development of air lines in the Indies and, finally, extensive fishing concessions along the coasts.

The Dutch showed that their reputation for stubborness is well-founded. The Japanese got nowhere. So a few days ago they announced a break. They also left open what they would do about it. Japanese papers quoted Yoshizawa as saying "The choice before us would seem to be either statesmanship or physical force."

WHAT TO DO

"What will I do, now?"
Reverses that come, all our lives through,
Have made us to say, many's the time,
"What in the world will I do?"

Say, there's always a way!
Out of pieces we re-create
A half-human something to live in,
And abide by our new estate!

No tragedy is so great
We should completely bow to its scourge,
There's the human will, there's the heart for faith,
There is always the God-given urge!

FIREWORKS NOT TO BE SOLD HERE

Police Chief Declares All Offenders to Face Prosecution

"There must be no Fourth of July fireworks sold or shot off, other than those in the fireworks display sponsored by Escanaba Commerce association," Police Chief Mike Ettenhofer declared yesterday. "Violators will be arrested and prosecuted."

Ettenhofer said his department would cooperate with the National Safety Council in the latter's program bearing the slogan "Take It Easy on the Fourth; Be Alive on the Fifth."

During July, 1940, some 9,800 persons were killed and 900,000 injured—a huge proportion of those totals accounted for by the Fourth of July alone. The accident rate for July in the United States over the past five years was 24 per cent higher than the average for all months. Approximately one out of every 150 persons in the United States is injured in a July accident, while every 12 days during the average July as many Americans are killed by accidents as lost their lives in the Revolutionary war.

July is a month marked by fatalities on the highway, on the water, from the heat, from burns and explosions of fireworks. With national defense programs fattening many pocketbooks, July and the Fourth send many vacationists out on the highway, skyrocketing the accident and death statistics.

The Fourth, Ettenhofer pointed out, will be a fine day to stay off the highways.

GUNS ENDANGER LIVES OF BOYS

Police Chief Tells Parents Air Rifles Should Be Confiscated

Air rifles (commonly known as "BB guns"), .22 caliber rifles and slingshots are imperiling the limbs, eyesight and lives of many Escanaba youngsters this summer, Police Chief Mike Ettenhofer said yesterday.

Several cases of injuries received by youngsters in use of those small but dangerous weapons were reported to police during the past few weeks. One young victim was shot through the hand with a .22 rifle, while another was struck near the eye by a pellet from an air rifle.

"I advise all parents to take those guns and slingshots away from their youngsters—the police are going to confiscate such weapons if we find boys endangering their lives or lives of others with them," said Ettenhofer.

Just a few days ago conservation authorities reported that boys armed with slingshots were molesting ducks in the Portage Point area.

Newberry

Village Tax Rate Fixed At Newberry

Newberry—The village council met early last week and fixed the tax rate for 1941 at one per cent. There will be raised the sum of $10,674.19 for general purposes and the further sum of $3,558.06 for street improvement purposes.

The expenditure of approximately $4400 by the Water and Light Board for improvements and addition to the village switchboard, and the sectionalizing of the distribution system was approved by the county.

The Francis Engineering company of Saginaw, was engaged to make a preliminary survey for a sewage disposal plant. The survey will cover a study of sewage collection, location of site, preliminary design, and all costs.

The question of garbage collection was also discussed by the council members, and an ordinance will be adopted at the next meeting to compel home owners to purchase and install approved garbage containers and to observe a few simple rules. The collection of garbage will be made by village trucks once each week.

Here's the source of $64,000,000 a year in farm income. That's the value of all Michigan's dairy products, including butter, cheese, evaporated milk and ice cream.

MICHIGAN'S RIVER OF MILK

Dairy products form the largest single item in Michigan's farm income. In this state—8th in the nation for dairy production—more than half a billion gallons of milk are marketed yearly.

This is a wholesome condition for the state, not only because it benefits Michigan farmers but because milk is Nature's most nearly perfect food.

To maintain the swift, unvarying flow of this river of milk from farm to table, dependable telephone service is all-important. By telephone, the dairy farmer can talk to the milk-receiving station, buy feed and equipment, or discuss creamery prices, all in a few minutes. By telephone, the city milk distributor controls the movements of transport trucks and route men. And by telephone, the housewife orders her pound of butter, quart of milk, or brick of ice cream.

Children need a quart of whole milk a day—adults at least a pint. Modern dairy methods rush pasteurized milk, pure and fresh, to homes all over Michigan.

Gay Contrast Marks Pretty Summer Frock

BY MARIAN MARTIN

PATTERN 9747

Of course you want at least one "sure-to-get-attention" dress this summer! This smart Marian Martin frock, Pattern 9747, will be the most arresting style in your wardrobe, yet it's one of the most easily made frocks you've ever seen. The unusual effect is achieved by using gay, colorful print for the revers and the optional wide skirt band. The very new and smart "sleeveless" look is shown in tiny caps that are cut in one piece with the bodice. Darts at the shoulders give nice, smooth lines. Part-way seams in front hold the bodice softness in place while the back has fluid, graceful princess lines. If you prefer to use one fabric for this style, you might add color with ric-rac.

Pattern 9747 may be ordered only in misses' sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20. Size 16 requires 3⅛ yards 35-inch fabric and ⅝ yard contrast.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS in coins for this MARIAN MARTIN pattern. Be sure to write plainly your SIZE, NAME, ADDRESS, and STYLE NUMBER.

Summer Fashion begins at home—with the Marian Martin Pattern Book! Hurry—order your copy today—and plan a colorful, complete wardrobe at your own price! There are exactly-right clothes for a going-away or a staying-home summer, with smart ensembles, trim sports modes, feminine party gowns, cool sheers, prints, cottons. Every-occasion styles for all the family—each quickly available in the simplest pattern you've ever used! BOOK just FIFTEEN CENTS. PATTERN FIFTEEN CENTS. WE, the WOMEN

BY RUTH MILLETT

There must be a lot of loyalty in women. Otherwise they wouldn't, in time of emergency, take on so much drudgery for so little credit.

Look at the English women. They're giving every bit as much to their country right now as the men are giving. They are not only sharing all hardships—but they are sharing danger.

There doesn't seem to be any job too hard, too dangerous, or too demanding of endurance for them to tackle. Yet they still aren't accepted by the men of England as real partners in this fight.

It may be a slim, clear-eyed, unafraid young woman who drags a man out from under the wreckage of a building, helps load him into an ambulance and then risks her life getting him to a hospital.

But once she's done her job, she isn't an ambulance driver—an important cog in her country's defense—she is a woman, who, it is assumed, doesn't need or doesn't enjoy a cigarette as much as an ambulance driver who happens to be a man.

Yes, women are finding it hard to buy cigarettes in London these days. Cigarettes, now scarce, are more difficult for women than for men to buy. Some tobacco stores, says London correspondent Rosette Hargrove, have even put up signs, "No cigarettes sold to women."

DESERVE EQUAL TREATMENT

There might be some excuse for such favoritism if the men were doing all the dirty work and the women were being protected. But instead, the women are being so equally responsible with men that they, too, are being drafted into war industries.

That being so, no man ought to be able to tell them they can't wear lipstick while serving in their country's defense—or that they ought to let the men have all the available cigarettes.

The only time men have a right to act superior to women and to decide what is becoming and what is unbecoming in their conduct is when women sit back helplessly and let the men protect, support and shield them from all hardships.

The working girl who can afford to take a trip when her two weeks' vacation rolls around spends hours deciding just where she is going and what she is going to do when she gets there.

Somehow she manages, during lunch hours and on Saturday afternoons, to get all her old clothes in shape and buy whatever new ones she can afford.

When she cleans up her desk the last night before vacation, she is all set to spend two weeks' time with but one object in view—to enjoy herself.

But the working girl who adds up her check stubs and finds she can't possibly manage to take a trip doesn't bother to make any preparations for her vacation.

She lets her clothes go and doesn't bother to pep them up with the addition of a few new things. She lets vacation time creep up on her without making any but the vaguest sort of plans.

When her friends ask her what she is going to do she says listlessly, "Oh, I don't know. I'll probably just putter around the apartment. There's quite a lot of work to do. And I'll catch up on some sleep I've been missing."

She wastes her precious two weeks doing odd jobs that could have been squeezed into her working year, going to a few movies and reading a book or two.

When it's over she goes back to her job no more refreshed than when she left it for the vacation that comes to her only once a year.

SHE COULD HAVE HAD FUN

She could have had fun on that vacation if she had planned it as carefully as does the girl who is going to take a trip. She could have had fun if she had put her clothes into good enough order to have a vacation wardrobe, and then asked herself what she had been wishing all year she had time to do.

The answer might have been, "To entertain my friends unhurriedly, not in the rush-home-from-work-and-stop-at-the-delicatessen way I usually have to entertain them."

If that were it, she could have planned her parties well in advance—and, by letting her friends know she was spending her vacation seeing the people she enjoyed, could have filled her two weeks full of fun.

Of course, her answer might have been entirely different—but whatever it was she could have used her vacation to give her something she wanted—not just to putter away.

And then she would have had as much of a vacation from her everyday existence as the girl who could afford a railroad ticket to some place else.

MEXICAN KIDNEY BEANS WITH BEEF

(Serves 4 to 6)

One and one-half cups dried kidney beans, 2 onions, 1 clove garlic, 1 large green pepper, ham or beef stock, salt, pepper, chili powder, 1 cup or more chopped left-over beef, ½ cup tomato juice.

Soak kidney beans in cold water overnight. Wash well, drain and add to ham or beef bone stock to cover. Simmer ½ hour. To hot bacon drippings add onion, garlic and green pepper cut in slices. Cook in drippings three minutes, then add to bean pot. Season. Continue to simmer until beans are almost, but not quite, tender. Cool. For dinner, add the chopped left-over meat and tomato juice, then reheat thoroughly. Serve with a large mixed green salad, hard rolls or French-type bread, and a fruit dessert.

For supper after skating parties, this bean and meat dish is ideal. Inexpensive, filling and very easy to heat up when the crowd comes in cold and ravenous.

General Sense Of Futility Is Result Of War

Never has an American college class graduated into so uncertain a world as that of 1941. To discover what this class thinks of its future and what it expects to do about it, NEA Service and The Daily Press asked six college editors to give their views in a series of articles of which this is the fourth.

* * *

BY SARITA HENDERSON
Editor, The California Daily, University of California '41
Written for NEA Service

Today's college generation faces the future with a profound sense of futility and resignation. Schooled in the arts of peace, graduating seniors are going into a world which offers only the prospect of war.

As the margin narrows between declared and undeclared war, the question uppermost in everyone's mind is whether we form another generation which will be called upon to die in vain.

Conspicuously absent is any sense of exhilaration at being designated the "saviors of democracy." However, there is rather a subdued acceptance of the inevitable rather than active rebellion among the graduates. The majority of students agree to the necessity of aggressive defense against totalitarianism.

NO POSITIVE GOAL OR FAITH

Throughout this past year the developments in national policy have been watched with an increasingly keen personal interest, and most consider the alternatives to this policy the greater of two evils. But still there is nowhere to be found a positive goal and a unifying faith.

Visions of a better world are blurred by the immediate prospect of blood and disaster, sacrifice and waste. Only negative incentives have been offered—defense, retrenchment of social gains, regimentation. The slogans of today bear the hollow ring of the 1920's, and the result is a foreboding of 1950's post-war revelations.

We were educated in a post-war era. We saw that once before an appeal to fight on a high plane of international morality was self-defeated by the emotions which war generates. We have learned the futility of war and we have been taught to distrust force as the antithesis of democracy.

Coupled with the distrust of force, we were given a weapon to put in its place for the settlement of disputes. It was the weapon of rationality and trained intelligence. Reliance upon the scientific method instead of fire-power to change social conditions has been ingrained in us.

But now the futility of even this technique is being demonstrated to us. For, in this time of the greatest crisis, men abandon the method of rationality as a fragile theory which will not bear the weight of emergency. Yet we are to fight to preserve the democratic method of persuation by reason rather than persuation by force. The college graduate may be permitted some confusion.

MAY PROFIT BY MISTAKES

To wipe out the disparity between the theory of our college education and the actuality of the times could be our role in the future. We may yet strengthen the democratic technique to a point where it cannot be threatened into irrationality by the forces of totalitarianism.

We may profit by the mistakes of a world whose problems have been allowed to remain unsolved until their only resolution lies in screaming shells and hopeless minds. Our aim can be not only to defeat Hitler, but most important, to defeat the conditions which make a Hitler possible.

Without a doubt, this year's graduate may yet make his contribution to a peaceful world—if he lives.

Engagement Announced

Of interest here is the announcement of the engagement of Miss Fannie Marie French, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. T. French of 1515 Carney Boulevard, Marinette, to C. John Fillinger, of Marinette, son of Dr. and Mrs. C. O. Fillinger of Pine Beach. The young people are planning a fall wedding. Mr. Fillinger is a nephew of Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Gustafson of this city.

Belle Schwager, Leslie Sanford Wed In Chicago

Of interest to many Escanaba residents is the following announcement in the Chicago Tribune of Tuesday, of the wedding of Miss Belle Schwager, daughter of Mrs. Theresa Greenhoot Schwager, to Leslie Sanford:

"Mrs. Theresa C. Schwager of South Dorchester avenue announces the marriage on Sunday of her daughter, Belle, to Leslie Sanford, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ashcer Goldfine of the Picadilly hotel. The ceremony took place at 2 o'clock in Bond chapel of the University of Chicago. Mrs. Sanford is doing graduate work at the University of Chicago, where her husband received his doctor of laws degree."

The bride, who has visited in Escanaba, home city of her mother's family, on many occasions, is widely known here.

SCHOLARSHIP TO ROBERT HARING

Bark River Youth Granted Opportunity to Study At Michigan State

Robert Haring, Bark River youth who was graduated from Escanaba high school last week, has been awarded a one-year NYA employment scholarship short course in general agriculture at Michigan State college—the first Delta county youth so honored.

Haring, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Haring, was recommended as a recipient for the scholarship by Henry Wylie of the high school faculty, Rev. Birger Swenson and E. A. Wenner, all of Escanaba.

Scholarship Plan

Under the NYA the agricultural scholarship plan Haring will study one-half of each day and, being on the NYA payroll, will work the remainder of the day. Michigan State describes the scholarships in the following manner:

"Full year of intensive and highly practical training.

"General Agricultural foundation with opportunity to specialize in Dairy Production, Dairy Manufacturing, Poultry, Forestry and Wildlife Conservation, Fruit Production, Floriculture and Greenhouse Practice, Agricultural Engineering (including tractors).

"Half-day school in College classrooms and laboratories; half-day work experience in College barns, fields, creamery, greenhouse, shops, and laboratories.

Income ample to pay room, board, books, fees, activities, and provides some 'pocket money'.

"Classes taught by regular College staff, and campus facilities are available, such as Library Gymnasium, Pool, Auditorium, Student Club, Grange, 4-H Club, Junior Farm Bureau.

"Graduates assisted in obtaining desirable employment as herdsmen, dairymen, poultrymen, creamery operators, orchardists, and many other jobs."

The course was further described by R. W. Tenny, director, in a letter to Wylie. That communication said in part:

"On your recommendation, 40 to 50 young men from rural communities of Michigan will be selected from the N. Y. A. Employment Scholarship Short Course at Michigan State College beginning June 23. There are no scholastic entrance requirements. The N. Y. A. Short Course has been running nearly two and a half years, and in that time nearly 150 young men have completed their work. More than half of these have returned to farms in their home communities or have taken other general farm employment.

Valuable Training

"Of the other half, a dozen are in D. H. I. A. testing, an equal number are employed in milk manufacturing plants, and a similar number are employed in helping care for large dairy herds. About a dozen more are in training with Uncle Sam, a few are employed in large poultry establishments such as the Hamilton Farm Bureau, a few have gone to work in shops and factories, and six are in Michigan State College as regular students. Any one of these graduates will tell you that his short course experience is of tremendous value to him.

"We are beginning a new step short course. The National Youth Administration is completing a dormitory and dining hall unit on the campus which will house 80 students. We are extending the six month's course to a full year and making it possible for these students to complete an amount of work equal to that offered in the regular Two Year Sixteen Weeks Short Course and with the same privilege of electing courses the last term in the field of their special interest."

Seventy-one per cent of the world's passenger cars and 54 per cent of the trucks are registered in the United States.

McMillan

McMillan, Mich. — Columbus township Rural Agricultural school at McMillan closed Friday for the summer vacation. William V. Acker, superintendent for the past six years and Mrs. Acker have returned to McMillan following a business trip to Merenisco where Mr. Acker has accepted a similar position in the Merenisco township schools. During their stay here they made many friends who deeply regret their departure from the community.

Philip Neault and Miss Geraldine Chisholm have also resigned from the teaching staff for positions at Grand Marais and Manistee. Appointments for 1941-42 to fill vacancies will be announced later.

Members of the senior class left Monday on a trip to Lansing and East Lansing. The group will travel by bus and were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. V. J. O'Connor. They have made reservations to stay at the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. in Lansing. The class will visit such places as the Michigan State College at East Lansing and the State Capitol at Lansing. Money for the trip was raised by giving an amateur hour program, parties, a pancake supper, a minstrel show and selling candy and popcorn at other school functions.

Mrs. Albert Edmonds has returned to her home here following a visit with relatives in Bay City. She was accompanied home by her son Edward Hanes, who visited here a few days with his mother and brother, Homer Hanes.

Rev. Philip A. Carpenter, pastor of the local Methodist church and the McMillan circuit, Mrs. Carpenter and daughter Joanne, left Wednesday for Detroit where they will remain indefinitely.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Grondin of Ortonville arrived Wednesday to spend the summer at their cottage on Manistique lake. They were accompanied here by their daughter, Mrs. Carl Dahlgren and children, Raymond and Mary Sue of Kego Harbor and Mrs. Grondin's sister, Mrs. Sidney Loomis of Lapeer.

Mr. and Mrs. James Locke have received word that their daughter Mable, who recently submitted to an operation for appendicitis in the Traverse City hospital is making a good recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd House visited Saturday with friends and relatives at Gladstone.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Heidebreicht are visiting indefinitely with relatives at Mt. Morris and in Indiana.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry J. Skinner visited over the week end with relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Foster of Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario, and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Skinner of Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.

A regular meeting of the Rural Child Health Association will be held in the Pentland township hall on Tuesday afternoon, June 24, under the supervision of president Mrs. George Roat of Lakefield. Pentland members will be in charge of the program. Pot luck lunch will be served.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kirby and children Muriel and Frank Jr., arrived home Saturday following a weeks' visit with relatives in Cheboygan and Port Huron.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Fitzpatrick of Pontiac, Mr. and Mrs. Keith Gibson of Indiana, Miss Helen Fitzpatrick of Detroit and Mrs. Kenneth Brown of Niagara Falls, New York, are the guests of their mother, Mrs. Blanche Fitzpatrick and sister's, Mrs. Claude Leighton and Ethel Fitzpatrick being called home by the death of their brother, Joseph Fitzpatrick.

Dr. and Mrs. Carl Dahlgren and children Raymond and Mary Sue left Monday for their home at Kego Harbor following a visit here with relatives.

Miss Marjorie Roat submitted to minor operation in the Newberry Clinic Saturday.

Mrs. Sidney Loomis returned to her home at Lapeer after spending the past week here with her mother, Mrs. Harriet Galligher and her sisters, Mrs. Bert Koontz and Mrs. Earl Koontz.

Mr. and Mrs. Perry C. Mark and son Billy left Sunday for Chicago where Billy will leave by plane for Denver, Colorado to spend the summer vacation months at the home of his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Amos Richey.

New York in 1901 was the first state to register vehicles and received approximately $1000 in revenue from this source. Currently, New York's annual receipts from car registrations exceeds $44,000,000.

Bids on Highway Projects Will Be Opened Here Today

Bids on three Upper Peninsula trunkline improvement projects totaling more than 17 miles of surfacing will be received by the state highway department at its Escanaba office today.

The proposed jobs are for surfacing on US-2 in Mackinac county, on M-26 and US-41 in Houghton county, and on M-28 in Chippewa county. Total cost of the work is estimated at $265,000.

In Mackinac county US-2 will be graded and surfaced with 22-foot concrete for 2.549 miles east from the Schoolcraft county line near Blaney. The new surfacing will eliminate an equal distance of existing old and bumpy blacktop and will connect at the east end with concrete paving which is now being completed. Cost of the work is estimated at $140,000 and the job is scheduled for completion by December 1.

The improvements in Houghton county will include the non-skid resurfacing of 11.035 miles of M-26 from Painesdale to US-41 in Houghton, and thence on US-41 through Houghton southeast to the vicinity of the Isle Royale mine. This will include the resurfacing of the street through the city's main business section, which is designated US-41. Total cost of the work is estimated at $65,000 and the job is scheduled for completion by September 15.

In Chippewa county 4.051 miles of bituminous concrete surfacing will be constructed on M-28 from Rexford east and west. The new surfacing will eliminate existing blacktop and gravel surfacing for an equal distance. The job will be completed by September 15 and the cost totals an estimated $60,000.

The proposed work on M-28 is a part of the scheduled complete improvement of that route from east of Strongs through to US-2 near Dafter. Construction of grading and drainage is now under way between US-2 and Wynn's Corner, and a survey is working from Wynn's Corner west.

Bark River

Bark River, Mich. — Mr. and Mrs. Felix Barr of Bark River and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Meyers of Cornell returned home last Friday from a ten-day trip to the eastern states.

BY BERNARD S. O'HARA

New York, June 17 (AP)—Led by senior issues, the stock market turned around today and retrieved most of the ground lost in the preceding three sessions.

Gains for scattered favorites ran to 4 points or so. Fractional improvement, however, was the rule when the concluding gong sounded.

Transfers totalled 403,880 shares against 338,130 yesterday. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up .3 of a point at 41.6.

Commonwealth & Southern paced the preferreds with a jump of 4¼ points as talk was heard of the company dropping its fight on "integration" and selling some of its northern properties to comply with the holding company law.

Hopes that brightening industry would enable some corporations with big dividend arrearages to reduce or eliminate back disbursements helped many issues in this group. Climbers in the senior class included Certain-teed, American Woolen, American Car & Foundry, General Cable, National Supply, General Steel Castings and Kinney. Some of these were at 1941 peaks.

Among common stocks up 1 to 2 or so were Bethlehem Steel, Chrysler, American Telephone, American Car & Foundry, Loft, Oliver Farm, Douglas Aircraft, Westinghouse and Johns-Manville.

Modest gains were shown for U. S. Steel, General Motors, Santa Fe, Great Northern, Anaconda, Sears Roebuck, Du Pont, Union Carbide, United Aircraft, Standard Oil (N. J.) and Eastman Kodak.

Persistent strength of some commodities such as cotton and cottonseed oil, which went to new tops for the past four years, was a bolstering factor. Grain futures, though, were a trifle reactionary. At Chicago wheat was unchanged to off 3-8 of a cent a bushel, corn down ¼ to 3-8, and hogs up 5 to 10 cents. Cotton ended up 80 cents to $1 a bale. Bonds were mixed.

Advancing in the curb were Singer Mfg., Brewster Aero, Phoenix Securities, Superior Oil and Pittsburgh Plate Glass. Trades here weer around 68,000 shares versus 66,000 Monday.

MINNEAPOLIS GRAIN

Minneapolis, June 17 (AP)—Wheat receipts today 406 cars, compared with 177 a year ago. Trading basis unchanged. Cash: No. 1 heavy northern, 99; dark northern, No. 1, 98½; No. 2, 98; No. 3, 96 to 97½; No. 1 hard Montana, 96 to 1.02; Minnesota and South Dakota No. 3 dark hard winter, 92 to 93; hard amber durum, No. 1, 83½ to 92½; No. 2, 88½ to 91½; No. 3, 84½ to 87½; No. 1 red durum, 80¼ to 81¼.

Flour, carload lots, per barrel in 98 lb. cotton sacks: Family patents, unchanged, 6.65 to 6.85; standard patents, unchanged, 5.40 to 5.60. Shipments 12,925.

Red-Throated Loon Is Caught On Hook

Marquette — A red - throated loon caught on a set hook by a Marquette commercial fisherman has been sent to the University of Michigan museum at Ann Arbor for mounting. Conservation department ornithologists rate this species of loon a rare transient here. It is an occasional winter visitor in Michigan.

Famed Statue of Andes Is Symbol of Good Will

PROOF that international disputes can be settled permanently without war is found in the famous Christ of the Andes statue, pictured on the Pan American Union's "Know the Americas" poster stamp above. The statue is also pictured on Argentina's Eucharistic Congress issue of 1934.

For 21 years, from 1881 to 1902, Argentina and Chile argued over their common Andean frontier. Efforts to settle the dispute by direct negotiation failed. National spirit mounted in both nations, war threatened. Finally the northern boundary was settled by an international commission and the southern frontier decided by arbitration of the British government.

People of both countries joined in the erection of the bronze statue on the international boundary, 14,450 feet above sea level. The monument was dedicated March 13, 1904.

Argentina and Chile gave additional proof of friendship immediately after the settlement of the boundary dispute by negotiating on May 28, 1902, the first known agreement for limitation of armament.

CHICAGO GRAIN

Chicago, June 17 (AP)—Late sharp rallies in soybeans, with prices advancing as much as 2 cents a bushel at times to the highest levels in nearly four years, helped to lift all grain trading out of the doldrums today. Lard futurfes also went into new high ground for the season.

The market was weak at the opening and at one time July wheat sold at 99 3-4 cents, off 7-8. Soybeans also dropped almost 2 cents a bushel, but late strength in the cotton market and a sharp advance in cottonseed oil later reversed the trend. Wheat and other grains, hoowever, finished slightly below the closing levels of the previous session.

Final prices for wheat were unchanged to 3-8 cent lower, July 1.00 3-8 to 1.00¾; September 1.02 to 1.01 7-8, December 1.01 to 1.03 3-4; corn ¾ to 5-8 off, July 73 1-8, September 75; oats 1-8 to 3-8 down; rye 3-8 up to ½ off; soybeans 1 to 1 5-8 cents higher, and lard advanced 5 to 7½ cents a hundred pounds.

Corn moved within a narrow range and failed to be influenced much by the rally in other commodities. Oats and rye were quiet although old crop July rye closed 3-8 cents a bushel higher while other deliveries finished fractionally lower.

Lard was easy at the start but rallied briskly in sympathy with cottonseed oil and soybeans.

New York, June 17 (AP)—The domestic list was narrow in today's bond markets inclining to irregularity. Generally lower trend prevailed for U. S. governments.

Transfers of $5,531,000, par value, compared with $4,912,250 on Monday. The Associated Press average of 10 foreign bonds advanced .7 of a point to 45.7, only .2 of a point away from the 1941 high. Other groups were about stationary.

Interest in domestic bonds was at a low ebb all day. There was some early buying of Erie obligations. After word from Cleveland its reorganization plan had been approved by the courts. The general lien 4s attained a new high at 56 at one time and the 5s of '75 got up 7-8 at 26 ½.

Others showing a little improvement included International Mercantile Marine 6s at 85½, North Western 4⅜s at 2, American Telephone 3⅛s at 108 5-8 and Missouri Pacific 5s at 23½.

Unchanged to lower were, among others, Southern Pacific 4½s, Pacific Gas 3⅜s, New York Central 5s, Missouri-Kansas-Texas 5s, International Telephone 5s and Rock Island general 4s.

U. S. governments eased off minor fractions in light turnover on both the stock exchange and over the counter.

CALIBAN FROM CALEB

BY NORMAN KAHL

COPYRIGHT, 1941, NEA SERVICE, INC.

CHAPTER II

Just as soon as Angus coaxes his ton-and-a-half truck over the top of Dunbar's Hill, he can see the lights of Herbie's Curbside Cafe about a mile down the road. Usually Angus takes the truck out of first gear and lets it coast down the slope in second, but tonight he doesn't bother.

He is in no particular hurry to get there. He hates to admit it, but he is afraid. Nothing that he can handle with his fists can scare him like this, but Adoreen can put him out for the count of flicking an eyelid.

He isn't sorry he asked Adoreen to marry him, and he hopes the answer will be yes. But he is afraid it might be no, and he is in no hurry to get jilted by the cutest little package that ever slid a platter of eggs across a marble counter.

Angus is late again tonight, and maybe Mr. Wittenbaum won't like it—especially after he brought his load in nearly an hour overdue on his last trip from Moosehart two nights ago. Anyway, he is glad he has the butter well iced, because it is quarter to one in the morning and not much cooler than it was just before the sun went down.

Half a dozen trucks are piled up in the dirt next to Herbie's, and Angus squeezes in between a couple of semi-trailers. He is hoping he will get a minute alone with Adoreen without one of the boys busting in and making smart-aleck cracks.

The place is full of smoke when Angus walks in, and some of the fellows yell at him. Angus just waves and grabs a stool in front of where Millie is slapping butter on a dozen slices of bread.

"Hello, Millie," says Angus. "Addie in the kitchen?"

Millie swings around like she is about to suggest that somebody go climb a tree, but when she sees Angus, her face softens a little and she says, "Oh, it's you."

"Can I go in the kitchen, Millie?"

"Sure, sure. Go ahead. I'm busy. Don't bother me now."

Angus pushes his hair back under his cap, and it comes right out again. He takes a quick look around the place and ducks into the kitchen. He gulps once, and then he says, "Hello, Addie." But no one answers, so he tries again before he realizes the kitchen is empty.

He is about to go back into the other room when Millie shows up. Her face is wet with perspiration and her hair looks like a thatched roof. "Now look here, Angus MacPhillips, don't ask any questions. I'm busy and I ain't got time to swap any conversation with you. I'm all alone and I'm trying to feed that mob out there without passing out any ptomaine."

Angus is bewildered and much more scared than if Adoreen were around. "But where's Addie? I thought she was gonna have Saturday night off."

Millie wipes her hands on her apron and fishes around in her pocket. She hands Angus a letter. "Looks as if this is for you," she says. Then she grabs a couple of steaming platters and heads for the door.

Angus rips open the envelope. It is a letter from Adoreen, and he sits down to read it.

"Dear Angus:

"Am writing a few lines just to let you know I have decided to go to New York and seek my fortune like we talked about so many times. I saw an ad for some chorus girls in a New York paper that a salesman left here and if that isn't opportunity knocking, then I don't know what is. Even though it's not a big job I am willing to start at the bottom and dance in a chorus for a month or two before some big producer sees my dramatic talent and starts me on the road to fame.

"Now don't you go worrying about me, and I guess the marrying part is off, but you can find yourself some nice girl and sometime when I'm in a big play or maybe even in the movies and you take your wife to see the picture you can tell her how you used to know me before I became famous and I'll even send you an autographed picture.

"It was nice of you to ask me to marry you and don't think I don't appreciate it, but I can't pass up opportunity and I think I am going to be happy and I wish you the same, with best regards.

"Very truly yours,

"Adoreen Mickletwidge."

Angus tightens up inside and reads the letter again. Millie breezes in, but he doesn't even see her, so she doesn't say anything—just hurries out.

The worst part of this whole business is that Adoreen doesn't know anything about New York. She doesn't realize that New York is just full of leeches waiting for pretty little kittens like her to show up. It is plain to Angus that there is only one thing to do.

He shoots through the door and nearly knocks Millie into a burly truck driver's lap. He grabs her before she falls and picks up a roundsteak from under the table.

"If Mr. Wittenbaum calls, Millie," Angus says, "just tell him I'll be back in a few days. Tell him I went to New York."

Millie drops the roundsteak again and grabs Angus by the collar. "You big lug, you can't go to New York. Leave her alone. She'll come back. You'll never find her—and you'll be fired."

"Yeah," says Angus sadly. "Maybe Mr. Wittenbaum won't understand. But I've gotta go and I'll find her."

Angus ducks away from Millie and dashes out the door. Millie is screaming after him, "Angus you're a nitwit. You can't go to New York tonight. You're a scatter-brained dope—" But when Angus gets the motor started on his truck, he can't hear anymore.

One of the semi-trailer men looks up and says to Millie, "What's MacPhillips hauling?"

"Butter," Millie wails. "Twenty-five hundred pounds of butter."

The semi-trailer leans his elbows on the counter and holds his head in his hands. "Oh, my God!" he says.

Angus drives all night, and he tries to keep his mind on the road so he won't think about Adoreen. He doesn't even remember the butter until after he crosses the state line and the sun comes up. Then he begins to hear a faint swishing behind him. He pulls into a filling station to get a tankful of gas.

The filling station attendant is a genial, gray-haired man who has seen nearly everything. He squints uncertainly at the oily, yellow drops that drip from the corners of the truck and hit the pavement. "Looks like somethin's leakin', Buddy," he says.

"Just some butter."

The filling station guy misses the tank and shoots gasoline all over his shoes. "You didn't, by any chance, say butter?"

"Yeah," says Angus. "Meltin' a little. Nothin' serious."

The gray-haired fellow gulps and he is relieved when Angus finally drives off down the road.

It is not until late in the afternoon when Angus runs into trouble. He sees it coming in his rear-view mirror, and it is riding on a motorcycle and wearing the uniform of a state trooper. The needle on Angus' speedometer says 65, and Angus remembers signs that are pretty clear about the speed limit in the state being 45. So he pushes the accelerator down as far as it will go and moves down the road another three miles before the cop catches up to him.

The officer is very red and very mad and very hot and has practically no sense of humor. He looks at Angus a minute and boils some more. Then he sniffs around and looks suspiciously at the rich golden creamery product that is streaming out near the front of the truck.

"Too bad," says he, "that we keep the hot seat only for murderers."

"I am in a hurry to get somewhere, Officer," Angus explains.

"You don't say?" says the cop. "I gotta get my girl."

The cop sneers. "Don't tell me there's someone that loves you, besides your mother."

"She's lost in New York. She ran away from me to get a job in a chorus."

"Your mother?"

"My girl."

"Oh, yeah. Well, I wouldn't blame her if she got a job in a coal mine just to get away from you. I'm going to give her a hand. I'll keep you away for a little while longer. You're coming with me."

PETITION GIVEN IN COUNTY CASE

Defendants Quick, Miller, Orr to Appear Before Circuit Judge

A petition requesting a circuit court order for the appearance of defendants Oren G. Quick, E. W. Miller and Charles R. Orr, from whom a judgement of $27,660 was won by Schoolcraft county last January, was filed yesterday by Prosecuting Attorney James R. Fitzharris.

Judge Herbert W. Runnels granted the petition and signed the order demanding the appearance of the defendants before him next September 22, to submit to an examination of their business affairs and ownership of property. The order also restrains them from selling, transferring or assigning any of their property from the date of the court order.

Only an inconsequential part of the county's judgment has been satisfied so far, the prosecutor said.

Quick, Miller and Orr formerly were officers of the now defunct Manistique Bank, in which the county had funds, the return of which it is seeking.

The June term of circuit court closed here yesterday. All cases on the calendar with the exception of a reckless driving case which was remanded to justice court, were continued until the next term.

Men Who Complete Army Training To Get Certificates

Chicago, June 15.—A certificate of service, to be awarded to specified personnel who have honorably served in the army of the United States, has been approved by the War Department, Major General C. H. Bonesteel, commanding the Sixth Corps area announced yesterday.

The certificates are designed to serve as a memento of a man's year of service, and also are in effect a form of "job insurance" to men returning to civilian life. They will serve the latter function as prescribed by statutes under which reserves and trainees were inducted into the federal service.

This certificate will be awarded to reserve officers and reserve nurses; commissioned officers, warrant officers and enlisted men of the National Guard of the United States; members of the enlisted Reserve Corps; members of the Regular Army Reserve, and trainees inducted under the Selective Training and Service Act of 1940, who satisfactorily complete the required period of active military service in the army of the United States, or who are honorably relieved or separated from active duty prior to the completion of the required period of service.

Since most of the men will be transferred to a reserve component of the army on completion of their year's service, they are being issued this certificate of service in place of a regular discharge. The certificate is designed to meet statutory provisions of both Public Resolution No. 96, 76th Congress, and the Selective Training and Service Act of 1940. Both statutes provide that all those who serve in the federal service under provisions therein, shall be entitled to a certificate showing the period of military service has been completed and which shall include a record of any special proficiency or merit attained.

Supervisors Will Meet Next Monday

The Schoolcraft county board of supervisors will hold its equalization meeting here at the county courthouse next Monday, June 23. William W. Davidson of Gulliver is chairman of the board.

First Upper Peninsula Safety Conference Opens Here Tomorrow Morning

Final details of the first Upper Peninsula Safety Conference which will open here at the Manistique high school auditorium tomorrow morning, were completed yesterday, General Chairman T. F. Mulrooney, announced.

Approximately 400 persons from all parts of the Upper Peninsula will attend, Mulrooney said. Among them will be law enforcement officers, firemen, representatives of business and industrial interests, city officials and others.

The general public is invited. There is no charge for any of the conference sessions except the noon luncheon.

A number of well known authorities on various aspects of safety problems will speak at the conference and will lead discussions.

Following the address of welcome by City Manager P. H. Beauvais, Harry Guilbert, regional director, National Committee for Conservation of Manpower in defense industries and director of the Bureau of Safety and Compensation of the Pullman company, Chicago, will speak on "Safeguarding Man Power for Greater Production."

J. Burr Taylor, special representative of the Western Actuarial Bureau, Chicago, will discuss the "Conservation of Property for National Defense through Fire Protection and Prevention."

The 12:30 o'clock luncheon in the high school gymnasium at which J. Joseph Herbert, Manistique attorney and regent of the University of Michigan, will preside as toastmaster, will be followed by an address by Clarence B. Randall, vice president of the Inland Steel company.

During the afternoon session Dr. E. G. Meiter, director of the industrial hygiene laboratory of Employers Mutuals, Milwaukee, will discuss "Causes and Engineering Control of Occupational Diseases."

A message on "Employing for Safety" will be heard from E. D. Stoetzel, director of industrial relations, Marathon Paper Mills, Menasha, Wis.

Mott B. Heath, director of the public relations division of the State Highway Department, will close the conference with an address on "Highway Safety."

T. F. Mulrooney will preside at both of the conference sessions.

Sponsoring the safety conference is the Manistique Chamber of Commerce and 27 other community organizations.

Following is the conference executive committee: chairman, T. F. Mulrooney; treasurer, F. H. Hahne; secretary, John W. Kelly; program, A. J. Cayia; luncheon, R. L. Prine; attendance, Charles S. Slining; reception, R. G. Hentscheil; registration, William Stephens; publicity, William L. Norton, Ken. L. Gunderman.

Sell Manistique To the Tourist, Is Theme Of School

"Appoint yourself a committee of one to sell Manistique to the tourist," said Thomas F. Mulrooney in sounding the keynote of a series of discussions Monday night at the tourist information school in the Manistique high school auditorium.

Mulrooney emphasized the fact that the money tourists bring into the community is becoming a factor of increasing importance to local prosperity.

John F. Kelly, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, was chairman of the meeting which was attended by a small crowd of business people, resort operators and other tourist minded citizens.

Dr. Ernest Brenner, county health doctor, spoke briefly on the importance of sanitation in resorts and roadside stands and told of the efforts by county health doctors and sanitarians to improve conditions. Resort operators and others whose establishments are approved are given a metal sign indicating the fact. Dr. Brenner said that a county wide inspection would begin here within a few days.

Short talks on various sites of interest to tourists in the community, among them the Seney game refuge, the Hiawatha national forest, the U. S. Forest nursery, the Thompson fish hatchery were given by Paul Robertson, Clarence Chase, E. F. Biebesheimer and Stanley Schust.

John Anguilm, assistant supervisor of the conservation department, Newberry district, discussed game laws and license fees, pointing out that the tourist really gets considerably more than his money's worth in Michigan.

John I. Bellaire told several of the interesting Indian legends concerning Kitch-iti-ki-pi, the Big Spring, and of Chief Ossawinamakee.

He said that last year the Big Spring had more than 70,000 visitors and that according to present indications there would be more this season.

Those attending the meeting were presented with buttons inviting "Ask Me, I Live Here," and Chamber Secretary Kelly urged that they be worn throughout the tourist season to encourage visitors to inquire about local points of interest.

NAB SUSPECTS AFTER CHASE

Alleged Short Changers Caught After 55 Mile Chase

Harold W. Barber and Ernie E. Barber, brothers who give their address as Route 2, Lebanon, Mo., and are alleged to be short change artists, were apprehended and placed under arrest Monday night about 10:45 o'clock following a thrilling 55-mile chase by state police and local authorities which started here and ended a short ways this side of Menominee.

Monday evening a report was received from state police headquarters at Marquette that two men were wanted for short changing at Gwinn. Descriptions of the men and auto were given and city and state police threw up a blockade.

After about a two-hour wait and while state police at Marquette were again being consulted the men wanted appeared and the wild chase resulted. The car turned onto US-41 at Escanaba and was not stopped until a short ways north of Menominee.

The alleged short change artists were returned to Marquette county for arraignment.

U. P. Briefs

Washington—Senator Prentiss M. Brown's reputation for being a family man is being taxed these days. Michigan's junior senator has just completed his annual task of moving his family from Washington to their summer home at St. Ignace in Northern Michigan.

Among the recent and coming events in the Brown family are included the graduation of his daughter Barbara from LaSalle High school in St. Ignace Friday night. Sunday there was a family re-union for Father's Day. Five of his seven children were present. Today Senator and Mrs. Brown celebrate their silver wedding anniversary and on Wednesday June 18 the senator reaches his fifty-second birthday.

The Brown family will remain in Michigan for the rest of the summer while the senator returns to Washington to work on the tax bill which will be handled by the senate finance committee of which he is a member.

Cannon-Bricco

In a double ring ceremony at 8 o'clock Saturday morning at St. Therese church, Appleton, Wis., Miss Mary Cannon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Cannon of this city, became the bride of Mark Bricco, son of Mrs. Elizabeth Bricco, White Lake, Wis.

The nuptial service was read by the Rev. M. A. Hauch, pastor of the church. The choir sang, "Ave Maria" at the offertory and George Bricco, brother of the bridegroom sang "On This Day, O Beautiful Mother."

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a sheer white organdy floor length gown, fashioned with a small train, a square neckline and a tight bodice buttoned down the back. Full sleeves extended to a point over the wrist. Her finger tip veil was fastened with a coronet of orange blossoms. She carried a prayer book and a gardenia bouquet with streamers of small pink roses and orange buds.

Miss Joan Cannon, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid and wore a teal blue silk net gown over taffeta, and a tiara of roses in her hair. She carried a bouquet of pink roses. Robert Bricco of New London, Wis., was best man.

A wedding breakfast was served to the immediate families at the Candle Glow tea room and a reception was held at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. William Albrecht, 416 South Weimar street.

Mr. Bricco is a member of the air corps at Chanute Field, Ill., and Mrs. Bricco has been employed as nurse at Howell, Mich.

Grand Marais

Grand Marais, Mich.—The following have filed petitions for election to the Burt Township Board of Education at the regular election to be held in July: Ora Endress, Mrs. E. Bennett, Mrs. A. Goupille, Milton Touzel Jr., and James Thompson. From this number three will be elected.

Miss Evelyn Williamson, student at the Northern State College of Education at Marquette, is spending her vacation at her home here.

The local ball team defeated the visiting Gulliver team in an exciting game played here on Sunday. Final score: Grand Marais—14; Gulliver—3.

Eddie Erickson has returned to his home here after spending the past two weeks in Detroit.

A large crowd attended the fish dinner served by the ladies of the Finnish-Lutheran church here on Sunday.

William Williamson, Coast Guard, stationed at Whitefish Point is visiting his parents in Grand Marais.

Alfred Niemi has returned to spend the summer with his parents here. Alfred is a student at the Northern State College of Education.

David Hill is spending a few days with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Morrison of Germfask.

Word has been received here of the death of Miss Flora McLaughlin of Los Angeles, Calif. Miss McLaughlin will be remembered by old residents of Grand Marais as a former post-mistress here.

Three more Coast Guards from the local station have been called to duty on the East Coast. The men are: Ted Hella, William Gustafson, and Charles Stickney.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Grasser and family have returned from a two weeks' visit with Mrs. Grasser's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Colbat, of Oscoda, Mich. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Felix Pearson.

Arlene Pearson spent the week end with her parents here.

Alfred Lundquist was a Manistique visitor on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lee have returned to their home here after spending ten days visiting relatives in Wisconsin and Minnesota.

Sayre Ostrander Jr., Recreation Leader who is teaching Archery and Swimming at a camp at Clear Lake, near Munising spent the week end at his home here.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Graham have returned to Detroit after spending two weeks vacation at their cottage here. They were accompanied by Mrs. Graham's sister, Mrs. Voelker, who has been their guest here.

Mrs. J. Tomkiel is spending a few days in Newberry with her daughter, Mrs. Charles Beaulieu, Jr.

WILL RESTORE TRAIN

Marquette—Trains 1 and 2 on the Duluth South Shore and Atlantic railroad will be restored to service between Marquette and Calumet within the next few weeks, officials of the road announced yesterday.

In July, 1939, these trains between Marquette and Calumet were discontinued and Marquette made the northern terminus. In a subsequent hearing before the state public service commission, the trains were ordered restored. The company obtained a rehearing of the case, but the commission again ordered restoration. The decision was appealed to the Ingham county circuit court where Judge Leland W. Carr on May 20 dismissed the appeal of trustees of the company.

NEW TRIAL ASKED

Menominee — A motion for a new trial for Mrs. Victoria Franszkiewicz, 72, Nadeau township, who is serving a life sentence at the Detroit house of correction for the poison murder of her husband, has been filed George Barstow, her council, said today.

Mrs. Franszkiewicz was found guilty by a 12-man circuit court jury in May of giving lethal doses of arsenic poison to her husband Romald in July, 1940.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you. 6-17

Conn vs. Louis Tonight, Fifteen Rounds Or Less

Champion Puts Title On Line 18th Time And Income Hits $2,000,000

BY SID FEDER

New York, June 17 (AP)—Joe Louis puts his world heavyweight championship on the line for the 18th time tomorrow night, and, for the first time in three years, there's some question as to whether his guns are going to go off.

He tangles with Billy Conn, a handsome curly-haired Irish kid from Pittsburgh, for 15 rounds or less in the Polo Grounds at 9 p. m. (E. S. T.) And so large has "pretty boy's" slim figure loomed on the heavyweight horizon in the past six months that 40,000 of the faithful are expected to tour into the big Harlem ball park.

They will contribute to a gross gate which Promoter Mike Jacobs confidently expects will hit the $400,000 mark and go beyond. And they will be sitting in to see the answer to two questions:

The Questionss

Has Louis gone back; has he lost his dynamite?

Are Conn's terrific speed and dazzling left hand enough to stand up for the "derby route" against the fearful flailing power of the bomber?

Since before last Christmas, the bomber has been going up and down the countryside playing one-night one-a-month stands on the tour of his "Bum of the Month Club." He has been the fightingest heavyweight king of all time, taking on the good ones and the bad ones, the brave and the frightened, the boxers and the sluggers, and with this engagement may boost his ring earnings over $2,000,000. Three weeks ago, he stopped Buddy Baer in Washington after being knocked out of the ring himself.

Different League

But this is a different league, and no one knows it better than Joe himself. He has worked harder in training for this get-together than for any since he was out for revenge against Schmeling. He has concentrated on high-geared speed, apparently preparing to come out pitching with the opening gun, intent on tearing Billy boy apart with one punch, if one will do. On top of that, he has been irked out of his sleepy monosyllabic self by what he insists are Conn's "smart cracks."

This peeve of the champion's, along with the fact that Conn will be spotting the Bomber more than 20 pounds—he'll weigh in at less than 180 and Joe will hit 200, more or less, on the nose—have led many to put the finger on Louis to keep right on in the winner's circle. However, the actual betting odds, after narrowing down to 2 to 5, went up today to 5 to 16 in favor of Louis.

Internal Friction May Cost Dodgers National Pennant

BY WHITNEY MARTIN

New York, June 17 (SNS) — One thing about the Brooklyn Dodgers, they don't try to hide their family arguments behind a cloak of sweetness and light. When they have a row they just go out on the front lawn and use megaphones.

The latest public performance has to do with Babe Phelps, the tank-sized catcher who is allergic to riding in airplanes and boats, and apparently trains. Phelps failed to show up at the depot when the Dodgers left on their Western swing, and immediately Manager Leo Durocher let it be known that Phelps was no longer needed, nor wanted.

Take Your Choice

You can choose up sides on that one, taking either Durocher's word that Phelps was just taking an unscheduled and unauthorized vacation, or Phelps' word that he was a sick man. The important thing is that the incident leaves the wayward thought that internal strife might yet cheat the club of its pennant chance.

Last year Luke Hamlin, given a verbal socking by Larry MacPhail for allowing batters to hit home runs, crawled into the doghouse and pouted for several days, and that little incident did the Dodgers no good.

When we saw the Brooklyns down south this spring we thought that, man for man and all down the line, they were just about the best club in the league. But we didn't pick them to win the pennant.

We picked them third. They may yet fool us and take it all, but the Phelps incident, backed by the memory of the Hamlin case, may be a symptom of a condition we feared might develop.

We picked them third because we weren't sold on the stability of the club. We feared internal troubles might develop which would more than offset mechanical excellence.

Young Riddle Is Apparent Answer To Reds' Problems

BY HARRY GRAYSON

Cincinnati, June 16 (NEA)—When a Riddle is the answer to a problem, it's news, and in Cincinnati there's a Riddle who appears to have put an end to what pitching worries William Boyd McKechnie had.

Elmer Ray Riddle is a 24-year-old Georgian who came to the Reds winter before last.

Riddle came along almost unobserved, but stepped to full stature when he rushed to the rescue of Bucky Walters on Decoration Day and held the Cardinals to a single hit in 4 2-3 innings to emerge the victor in the 13-inning struggle which broke the St. Louis winning streak of 11.

Riddle was a Rhinelander all last season, but broke into only 15 games. His earned run average of 1.85 was spectacular, but his innings total indicated lowly status on Deacon McKechnie's list of precedence.

After all, there were William Walters, Paul Derringer, Gene Thompson and the elderly milkman, Jim Turner.

Riddle Qualifies

But today, on the strength of very neat relief jobs, Riddle looms as the right-hander to take the No. 4 place in the Reds' front-line of starting pitchers . . . ahead of Junior Thompson, Turner and Monte Pearson.

IOWAN LEADS MEET

Cleveland Comes From Behind To Defeat The A's

Philadelphia, June 17 (AP)—A wild pitch by Phil Marchildon, permitting Gerald Walker to score from third base in the eighth inning, shattered a 2-2 tie and gave Cleveland an uphill 3 to 2 victory over the Athletics at Shibe park tonight.

A crowd of 19,236 that turned out despite a heavy downpour an hour before gametime, saw the A's score their two runs in the first inning on Bob Johnson's 14th homer of the year with Wilson Dee Miles on first.

Phil Marchildon held the Indians for three innings, but in the fourth Hal Trosky clouted a homer over the right field wall. In the sixth the Tribe tied the score when Jeff Heath beat out a bunt, reached second on Clarence Campbell's single, third on an infield out and scored on Ray Mack's long fly.

CHICAGO HALTS YANKEES' RUSH

White Sox Grab 8-7 Win, Tigers Split Two With Red Sox

New York, June 17 (AP)—The pell-mell rush of the New York Yankees was interrupted today by the Chicago White Sox with an 8 to 7 victory after the Yankees had won eight straight games.

It was a wild, see-saw struggle with each team using three pitchers and the ordinarily light-hitting White Sox getting 11 of the game's 20 hits. Nineteen of the blows were singles and the only extra base knock was a two-run homer by Charley Keller to tie the score in the eighth inning.

In the first six innings Rigney allowed only three singles and two runs, all in the third frame. He went to pieces in the seventh to allow three runs on four hits, one a single by Joe Di Maggio to extend his hitting streak to 30 consecutive games.

TIGERS SPLIT

Boston, June 17 (AP)—The Detroit Tigers scored four runs in the ninth inning to come from behind and take the second game of a double header from the Boston Red Sox, 8 to 5, today after the Sox hammered three Detroit pitchers to win the opener, 14-6.

Short Shots on Sports

By Milton Plumb

Hitting the high spots in low gear . . . If the scoresheet I received is correct (and PULEEZE, scorers, list the players' positions!), the Hermansville baseball team made something of a seasonal record with 13 miscues on the diamond Sunday. Polazzo made six, the score sheet indicates, but three other players made two each . . . What's this rumor about a Central league ball player (it's an amateur circuit) quitting because there was no cash laid on the barrelhead? . . . Bill Collins, handling publicity about the Chicago gal gridders who'll appear in Gladstone on the Fourth, is nursing a little peeve against the Chicago dailies; says of the Chi sportswriters . . . "But these boys are too blase, and don't and won't believe the gals can play. However, I've seen them and know they can play. They're plenty tough" . . . I'm somewhat skeptical, William, but I'm withholding an opinion until I've seen the feminine Granges and Harmons in action.

A portly Ludington streeter objects to being labeled as my secret operator No. X-11. Hereafter he will be identified as Operator K-9 . . . Bad news for Ted Williams, the Boston Red Sox slugger . . . and he ain't heard nothin' yet. Last week Ted's stick average fell 26 points to the .410 level . . . while Joe DiMaggio gained 14 and is now at .340 and still going . . . However, Pat Mullin, the Tiger's young sensation, climbed 31 points to .370. Bill Dickey is third in the American, at .363 . . . Bob Feller, through last week, fanned 107 batters, Buck Newsom in second place with 57 whiffs to his credit . . . Craig Wood, the National and Masters golf champion, says he doesn't think Ben Hogan will win the National until he learns to "fade" his shots . . . says that while the winter cash tournaments are played on courses with wide open fairways, the Nationals are played on narrow fairways with tricky greens—putting a premium on "fading" iron shots that will stop on the betrapped greens . . . The U. P. Lions golf tourney was planned as a match-play affair but was changed to a medal-play battle.

From Marquette U. in Milwaukee . . . Coach Tom Stidham, discouraging his players from taking footballs home for summer practice, told them to forget the sport during June and July, to "think it" in August, practice it in September and play it in October . . . said he was afraid of gridders going stale on too much football . . . I wonder how much the Chi Cubs paid the Braves for Babe Dahlgren? . . . The Cubs plan to use Dahlgren, a righthanded hitter, against lefthanded pitching and Phil Cavarretta, a lefthanded sticker, against righthanded flinging . . . President George M. Trautman of the American Association, has assumed charge of the Milwaukee Brewers, taking the power of attorney offered him by Henry J. Bendinger, the controlling stockholder, and will sell the club to anyone interested. Meanwhile, Trautman has placed several young Brewer pitchers on the market . . . the Red Sox and Cleveland are interested.

Dodgers Drub Cubs In Battle Of Homers, 7-6

Chicago, June 17, (AP) — A three-run homer by Jim Wasdell in the first half of the tenth inning was more than the Chicago Cubs could match today, although Hank Leiber hit for the circuit with one on, and the Dodgers captured a 7 to 6 victory.

Wyatt received credit for his tenth victory, but was removed with none out in the tenth after Bill Nicholson singled, Leiber homered and Dahlgren walked.

ESCANABA GOES ON ROAD SUNDAY

Locals Invade Gladstone, Gwinn Goes to Munising, Negaunee At Trenary

The Michigan Rainbow League war whoop appears likely to become a "Stop Escanaba" affair.

With every team in the league represented in the "Games Won" column and all but Escanaba in the "Games Lost" department, league standings now read:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Escanaba	3	0	1.000
Trenary	2	2	.500
Negaunee	1	1	.500
Gladstone	1	2	.333
Munising	1	2	.333
Gwinn	1	2	.333

Games Next Sunday

Escanaba, after three straight victories at home, begins a three-weekend road trip next Sunday, invading Gladstone. Gwinn goes to Munising, while Negaunee travels to Trenary.

Sunday's games will go a long way toward deciding the championship, although the league schedule calls for 15 games for each team. The closely packed teams in the standings will begin to scatter out somewhat after Sunday's games.

Angry Father Says Billy Conn Can't Marry His Daughter

Pittsburgh, June 17 (AP)—Billy Conn, Pittsburgh heavyweight boxer who battles Joe Louis for the title tomorrow night and the 21-year-old daughter of a former major league baseball player have applied for a marriage license, it was disclosed tonight.

The application was filed May 28 before Register Walter Evans in Brookville, Jefferson County, Pa., by Conn and Mary Louise Smith, daughter of Jimmy Smith, of Pittsburgh. Miss Smith's father for 11 years was an outfielder with the Cincinnati Reds and the New York Giants.

At Conn's request, Evans said, the application was withheld until yesterday, to be issued tomorrow under the Pennsylvania three-day law.

Pa Is Peeved

Earlier, Conn denied his engagement at his training camp and later said "my private business is my own."

Miss Smith's father, aroused by the reports, said: "Champion or no champion, I'll punch hell out of that fellow and he'd probably be the first one to say I could do it. I hope he wins, but I want him to stay away from my family."

CENTRAL LEAGUE TEAMS ARE TIED

Blaney Blasts Curtis Out of Undisputed Lead of Circuit

Blaney Park, June 17—The Blaney Park team knocked first half standings for the Central baseball league into a three-way tie—Curtis, Blaney and Germfask—by defeating the Curtis Resorters, 4-3, before a capacity crowd here Sunday.

"Lefty" LaRose's great pitching for Blaney marked the local contest. Curtis' rally in the eighth netted one run, one short of tying the count, but LaRose had the stoplight stuff on his hooks in the clutch. Pete Salter quit the Curtis team in a huff just before game time, but Mike Barr did a neat job of catching for the Resorters and qualified for the state tournament the fall. All player lists must be in the commissioner's office by June 19, each team allowed 15 players and manager in uniform.

Meeting Slated

A meeting to decide how the first half playoffs for the Central are to be played will be called in the near future. Next Sunday Curtis goes to Engadine and Germfask invades Blaney Park. Last Sunday Germfask won from Engadine.

Blind Publisher Honored For Long Success In Life

BY FRANK H. RICE
United Press Staff Correspondent

Watkins Glen, N. Y. (UP) — Frank W. Severne, 80-year old publisher of the Express, a weekly, has lived in a world of shadows since he was 10 years old. Frank W. Severne is blind.

Yet the entire village has toasted the success of its No. 1 citizen, who is a combination of editor, poet, publisher, politician, philosopher and philanthropist, and this despite the handicap of blindness.

When he was 10, he lost his sight, but Severne maintained faith in his own ability.

Realizes No Handicap

"Those with whom I come in contact apparently are more sensitive to the loss of my sight than I am. You see I never knew anything but this. I was too young really to realize the loss of my sight. I quickly grew accustomed to it, and now I don't know anything but this life."

In his struggle for success, handicapped by what many would have considered an insurmountable obstacle, Severne met with many reverses, but today is comfortable, happy, prosperous and "the toast of the village folk."

He took command of the struggling weekly newspaper, the Watkins Glen Express, many years ago. In a short time the paper was on a sound financial basis and today five families are supported by the business it maintains. The circulation exceeds 2,500.

At the age of 11 Severne entered the Batavia school for the blind and studied literature. In 1880 he came here with his parents and helped them operate a restaurant until 1895. Then romance came into his life and he married and often speaks of his wife as "my eyes." Two daughters were born to the union.

Elected to County Office

Politically, he has been successful. He was elected county superintendent of the poor in 1902 by a substantial majority. Three years later he was elected unanimously to the same office. For many years Severne has been a member of the Schuyler county Republican committee.

In 1922 he was the G.O.P. candidate for member of the assembly, but was defeated. Civic life appealed to Severne and he served as president of the local fire department.

Former Gov. Charles Evans Hughes, realizing the talents and abilities of Severne, appoiated him to the board of managers of the Batavia school for the blind. He was the first graduate ever to be thus honored. He now is president of the board of managers, and the only member of the board who is sightless.

Recently the entire town honored Severne on his 80th birthday.
